Britain Also Speculates
What Use Is Science?
Buying Whiskey No Crime
Preventing Influenza

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

SPECULATION in the Ford British company, called "Ford, Ltd.," is almost as active in Britain as it is here. The stock, sold originally to the British by Ford at 20 shillings a share, now sells at "75 shillings premium," which means 95 shillings a share.

The British probably have heard how Senator Cousens, of Detroit, put about $2000 in the original Ford company and took out $30,000,000 in cash. Such things don't usually happen twice.

"What is the use of science" is sometimes asked.

A geologist answered a British coal mine owner: "You have wasted fortunes boring for coal where there was none. I could have told you to stop and save your money whenever you came to a certain formation in the earth. Never any coal below that formation. It came before the coal was formed."

A gathering of scientists in New York yesterday was told by an expert of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company that "More than 500,000 children in the United States have been saved from the orphanage because science has extended the span of human life."

To keep alive the fathers and mothers until the children are grown is certainly welfare work. And science forgets superstition, the poison of the ruined, as the actinic rays forgot streptococci in the blood stream.

Judge Kirkpatrick of the United States Court says there is nothing illegal about BUYING bootleg whiskey. To SELL it is an offense, and to have it transported is an offense. But merely to buy it is not illegal.

This protects customers of the bootleggers. They have no difficulty in protecting themselves, sometimes with bribes, sometimes with sawed-off shotguns.

Mr. Durant paid $25,000 for "a way to enforce prohibition" that would NOT enforce prohibition. Make it a felony to buy whiskey, bootleggers will lose their customers, and that will help prohibition.

Simply showing lack of respect for the constitution does not worry respectability much. But committing a felony, with the prospect of going to jail, plus the danger of blackmailing by bootleggers, WOULD make respectability think hard.

The United States census bureau reports 710 deaths of influenza last week. There are 1,250,000 new cases in this country.

The death rate is low in proportion to the number of cases, fortunately, but it is a dangerous and growing epidemic.

Probably one-half of the cases are caused by the habit of putting the hand to the mouth or nose, sometimes in moistening the fingers to turn the leaves of a book or newspaper. That plants the germs on the mucous membrane.

Children should be warned against that.

It was mentioned in this column that any surplus of oranges, lemons, grapefruit would soon become a deficit. Our wealth is increasing twenty billion a year, our population several millions a year. Only certain lands can grow citrus fruits, and those lands cannot be increased. Southern California was mentioned, of course.

The Sacramento Chamber of Commerce wants it understood that Northern California also grows citrus fruits. "The largest lemon grove in the world is at Maxwell, seventy-five miles north of Sacramento. Sacramento valley oranges are first into the market for Thanksgiving and Christmas trade."

Georgia also wants it understood that the state produces most excellent satsuma oranges, marvelously healthful for children and the best for making marmalade.

Nevertheless, the land that can grow oranges 18 strictly limited. The nation's wealth and population are unlimited. That's a comfortable thought for land owners. Keep your land. There is only so much of that, of any kind.

'BOSSY' AND DRIVER ARE ARRESTED

Willsbarre, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP)—Bossy Gillis, irrepressible mayor of Newburyport, Mass., narrowly escaped death here early today when an automobile in which he was a passenger, overturned on a slippery pavement.

In addition to the discomfiture of bruises and lacerations, "Bossy" was taken into custody by police, but released a short time later when a bond of $25 was posted.

Gillis, who came here as the added attraction of a traveling orchestra, was returning to the city with a group of friends when the auto got beyond control of the driver in Wyoming borough. The machine tipped over on its side. All of the occupants escaped with bruises.

A policeman took the driver and Mayor Gillis into custody on a charge of reckless driving.

"I am 'Bossy' Gillis," the traveling Mayor told the sergeant.

'W' Prefers Death to Life's Joy

Here's a story for one man only.

He signs himself "W," and he plans to kill himself within 48 hours, so he says in a special delivery letter delivered to the Boston Evening American today.

In spite of those gray and gloomy December mornings, this isn't such a tough world. There'll be a few of sunshine and blue skies yet for a fellow to miss.

"W" writes that he has a "wonderful wife" and some youngsters. He guesses it would be "better for them" if he poisoned himself.

Maybe he's right, but this wife and the children won't feel that way. Any reporter in town can tell "W" that. It's a strange thing about the "better half" and the "family."

They'd rather have their man around—where they can give him the devil when he needs it—than have him under an ornamental gravestone, bothering nobody.

They are set in their views, too.

Probably "W" doesn't deserve it.

ATTEMPT TO INCREASE POOR MAN'S TAX RAISES WAVE OF INDIGNATION

Organized labor today joined the army of Massachusetts citizens preparing to battle against the proposed increase on small salaries in the state income tax law. The proposal already has been characterized by Governor Fuller as an unjustifiable burden on the working man.

Led by the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor-elect Youngman, other officials and prominent citizens, an ever-swelling chorus of protest arose against the proposal which would reduce exemption from $2000 to $1000 and increase taxes for the small salary worker.

Labor leaders joined their voices to the threatening outburst of denunciation, and promised the opposition of their compact organizations.

State and city officials, members of the general court, leaders in civic

DEFER AUTO RATE CASE

To give complainants opportunity to "co-ordinate" and simplify their pleas, Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court today postponed until January 8 the hearing of petitions seeking the revision or nullification of the 1929 compulsory automobile insurance rates as established by the then acting insurance commissioner, Arthur E. Linnell.

The petitioners, including the great majority of the agents of firms doing compulsory automobile insurance in the Commonwealth, ask immediate relief from Linnell's schedule, which, they say, sets pro-

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP)—Marc McDermott, veteran screen actor, is reported critically ill in a Glendale (Cal.) hospital. He was said to be suffering from a stomach and liver disorder.

According to hospital authorities, McDermott was stricken several months ago, but remained at his home in Hollywood until three weeks ago, when he was ordered to the hospital.

200 IN PERIL AS TRAIN PLOUGHS ALONG TIES

Two hundred passengers were shaken and frightened today when the third car of a four-car passenger train of the New Haven railroad, bound from Duxbury to Boston, was derailed at East Weymouth and ran a long distance before being stopped.

No one was injured by the accident, said by officials to have been caused by a broken axle casing, but the passengers were all delayed in getting to work.

The derailment occurred about half a mile from the East Weymouth station. The train was in charge of Conductor George Mapes of Cohasset.

As the third car left the rails it crunched through the ties and wrecked a number of interlocking switches. Passengers were badly shaken up and some were bruised.

All passengers were transferred to the first two cars, which proceeded to Boston, 13 minutes late.

Other trains following were routed around the two cars on another track. An emergency crew and engine were dispatched to the scene and the crippled car was back on the track after half an hour's work.

SUNDAY SPORT INQUIRY UP TO FINANCE BOARD

With professional Sunday sports officially ratified in Boston, the attention of sport fans and the public generally was focussed today on the outcome of next Wednesday's Finance Commission hearings.

Mayor Nichols who, it had been understood, was about to launch a special drive for the vitriolic attacks made upon him in the City Council session that ended with Sunday sports ratification, apparently decided to remain silent and to "view with scorn" the antics of certain councilors.

On next Wednesday Charles F. Adams, vice-president of the Boston Braves, will appear before the Finance Commission and will tell, exciting them,

'EXHAUSTION' OF KING CAUSES NEW ANXIETY

London, Dec. 28—Anxiety over King George's condition, which was somewhat allayed over the Christmas holiday by the absence of disquieting news in the meager bulletins, again gained force this afternoon.

King is in a state of grave exhaustion. It is difficult to administer nourishment, although slight improvement in this respect was noted today.

New measures are being undertaken to combat His Majesty's weakness and regain the lost ground.

The 33 women and five men, all aged, who are "life occupants" of the Cooper Homestead, Dedham, are faced with the loss of the security for which they have paid from $500 to $1000 each, as bankruptcy petition filed in Federal Court, Boston, revealed today.

Mrs. Helen L. Cooper, proprietor of the Homestead, voluntarily declared herself insolvent in her plea to the court. She sets her liabilities at $42,094, and lists her assets as totalling only $29.

$100,000,000 PAID BY JOHN D., JR., FOR REALTY

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—The New York Times says today that it has learned from "most reliable authority" that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has taken title to nearly three wide blocks of property between 49th and 51st sts. and Fifth and Sixth aves. in a record real estate deal.

The property is to include a site for the new Metropolitan Opera House and the purchase price was said to have been more than $100,000,000. The title was held by Columbia University.

Plans for the new Metropolitan Opera House call for a site in the block between 49th and 50th sts., with a spacious plaza in the center of the block. Tentative plans provide for an underground parking space for about 1000 automobiles.

The property originally was the site of the old Engin Botanic Gardens, purchased more than a century ago from the city for $4,806 36 by Dr. David Hosack, whose name was associated with medical progress in the United States.

THOUSANDS PROTEST PLAN TO INCREASE TAX ON SMALL SALARIES

FULLER IS BACKED IN ATTACK

life, all united in characterizing the proposed change as unfair, discriminatory and something approaching high-handed despotism.

Not in years has there been such a unified protest from all ranks of people throughout the Commonwealth, as is being made over the proposal submitted at a hearing before the tax commissioners at the State House yesterday.

"I will bring the matter up at the executive meeting next Tuesday at 11:30 a. m. at 11 Beacon st.," said Martin F. Joyce, secretary-treasurer of the executive council of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor.

"We will act upon it at that time. It is absolutely unfair to place any further tax burden upon the workingman in Massachusetts. He is already paying as much as he can bear.

"To increase from $7.50 to $10 the State income tax of the married man earning $3,000 a year is outrageous, especially in view of the fact that the taxation commission proposes reducing the amounts to be paid by men earning between $4,000 and $15,000. What they should have done was to reduce the amount on men earning up to $4,000 and increase it on those getting more, provided added revenue was really needed."

Harry P. Grages, secretary-business representative of Boston Central Labor Union, said:

"I am absolutely opposed to any increase in the State income tax of the working man getting under $4,000 a year. To increase the tax from $7.50 to $10 of the man earning $3000 a year is extremely unfair. It's all a man with a family can do to get by and keep out of debt on that amount. To place an additional burden upon his shoulders is a rank injustice."

P. Harry Jennings of Dorchester, one of Boston's most prominent labor leaders, said: "It is unfair to place a further tax burden upon the man earning a small salary and we shall certainly oppose the proposed increases in income tax to the person earning under $4000. I can't see it at all. I don't think it is a fair proposition. The working man is overburdened with taxes now. It's a shame to put this proposed additional tax upon his shoulders. It's a case of giving it to him with one hand and taking it away with the other."

Youngman Against Heavier Tax Burden on Poor People

Lieutenant-Governor-elect William S. Youngman said:

"Already too heavy a tax is assessed on people whose income is derived from ownership of stocks and bonds, such as old people retired with a small amount of property.

"The suggestion to raise the tax heavier than it is at present on people whose salary is as low as $2000 is a bad one."

Representative Thomas C. Crowther of Hull River, member of the House committee on judiciary, declared:

"I am opposed to any further increase in the income tax of the small salary earner. If anything, steps should be taken to lighten that burden, as the Federal government has already done."

President Thomas H. Green of Boston City Council: "I wish to denounce the proposal of the special legislative commission on taxation to increase the State income tax on persons earning up to $4000. The proposal is ridiculous on the face of it.

"What justification can the commission have for reducing the tax of the man earning between $1000 and $15,000 of amounts ranging from more common sense."

Says State Should Lighten Load on Little Fellow

City Councillor Atty. Robert G. Wilson, Jr. — "There might have been some rhyme or reason to the special commission on taxation had increased a little all along the line or had increased on the big fellow, but to reduce the big fellow and at the same time increase the little fellow's tax two or three times is ridiculous.

"I think the State officials should follow the example set by the federal government, making it unnecessary to file any return unless the gross income from all sources is over a certain figure.

"The state should lighten the load on the little fellow and put the burden on the fellow who can afford to pay. Unless a man is getting $2000 from all sources, I think he should not be put to the trouble and worry of making a return. That is the federal government rule and the state should follow it.

"The average person doesn't understand the income tax and many persons earning under $2000 in this state have engaged an attorney or some other person to make out their return and pay that person $5 for making a return whereby the state obtained 37 or 37 cents tax on d dividend on some non-Massachusetts stock.

"For instance, if a man makes less than $2000 and obtained $12 in dividends on some New York Central stock he happened to own, he is forced under the present state income tax law to pay 72 cents, or 6 percent on the 12. That man would have to pay an attorney or some one $5 to make that return for him if he didn't understand how to make out the return. That is an impossition.

"I have known many men who paid a fee of $5 for making out a return whereby the state was paid 24 or 12 cents. It is not uncommon, at all. I have had scores of persons come to me and engage my services for just such cases. It's all wrong. If a person gets less than $2000 annually from all sources he should not be compelled to file a return, as at present, and if he gets less than $4000 his income tax should not be increased.

"It's a case of picking on the little fellow for the benefit of the big fellow," said Atty. Raymond P. Delano, former president of the Dorchester Board of Trade and leading member of the United Improvement Association.

"It's like the big fellow who gets electricity at 1½ cents per kilowatt and says he is satisfied with the service, but the little fellow who pays 9 or 9½ cents per kilowatt for electricity to light his home is not so much satisfied.

"The proposed changes in the income tax law will naturally appeal to the special interests at the expense of the fellow who can least afford to pay more and who should be protected by our lawmakers.

"I believe real estate should be relieved of some of the tax burden now levied upon it.

"It is bearing a much larger amount of the costs than other groups. The man who owns a piece of property now and plays the role of janitor has done well at the end of the year if he has got 7 or 8 per cent on his investment.

"Should he pay one-tenth of the income and one-fortieth of the value of his property, or should not some of it be paid by the big department stores, which turn over their money eight to 10 times a year and make 10 per cent each time, or the banker, who turns his money over 40 times a year and makes 15 per cent each time?"

City Councillor Henry Parkman, Jr., who will take a seat in the House of Representatives on January 1, said:

"Off hand it seems surprising to me that the special commission on taxation should recommend increases in income tax for the person earning $4000 a year or less.

"I thought the tendency, even of the federal government, was to give the person earning a small amount of money a better chance. I haven't studied the special commission's report and don't know its reasons for the conclusions drawn, but I presume it will come before the Legislature for action."

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

New Income Tax Plan Hits Low-Salary Men

COMPARISON of the proposed state tax schedules with those now in force revealed that the small and large salaried men will pay more to the state coffers while the medium salaries will be taxed less.

A table shows that single men earning less than $4000 are hit hard. Salaries between $4000 and $15,000 will be taxed a smaller amount and those more than $16,000 will be harder hit than at present.

Married persons fare slightly better.

quiete sleep toward morning. There is less difficulty with taking nourishment, and the general state improved during the past 12 hours."

A huge throng gathered about the palace gates early to await the posting of the morning bulletin. The morning bulletin had been omitted during the last three days but was resumed today.

After ten days of optimism, the London newspapers are again in the throes of doubt and anxiety.

NEW ALARM IS FELT

Officially it was not admitted that the king had suffered more than a relapse but in certain quarters yesterday's bulletin was received with alarm.

The bulletin admitted that His Majesty's condition was not continuing satisfactorily, that his strength was not being maintained and that he was disinclined to take nourishment. The only solace, that his pulse remained steady, was not received favorably by the press.

The violet ray treatment was administered to the royal patient last night for the first time in several days.

The doctors have not explained the cause of the check in His Majesty's condition. It was assumed from the day's bulletin that it was partly due to a loss of strength owing to his inability to take food.

It was also conjectured that there may have been an increase in the general infection. It was understood that it was with the idea of ascertaining this that Dr. J. E. H. Whitby, a bacteriologist, made an examination of the king.

All of the royal family except the Duke and Duchess of York were at the palace. Princess Mary, who had been expected to go to Leeds to be with her husband, Viscount Lascelles, stayed in London.

Chicago, Dec. 28 (AP)—There aren't any more bullets in Joseph M. Adler's old army pistol, but there is one less bandit alive.

Adler came out of the World War with the revolver and a wooden leg. Last night, when four men held up his drugstore the war veteran, who was in his living quarters above the store, took the pistol from a drawer and hobbled downstairs.

Through a peephole he saw his clerk being held up by the four robbers. Pushing open the door Adler fired, one of the bandits being killed at the first shot.

have paid her, she says, sums amounting to more than $12,000, for which she owe sthem "support."

miums so low that they must either operate at a loss or go out of business.

In refusing to hear the petitions today, Judge Pierce said he was influenced by two considerations.

First, he thought that, by "coordinating" their pleas, the petitioners might amplify proceedings, and make it possible for their claims to be considered together.

Secondly, he felt that the court would be less pressed for time at the later date.

Judge Wait will sit on the case on January 8.

OBJECT TO SCHEDULE

The principal action before Judge Pierce today was an amended petition brought by Attorney Robert Homans, counsel for the Boston Association of Casualty Insurance General Agents.

In their plea, the Insurance men object to the Linnell schedule's classification of risks and to its regulation of premium rates. They ask the court to review Linnell's action, and they pray for speedy relief. Because of the 1929 schedule, as promulgated, they are at present seriously handicapped in their business, they allege.

They further maintain that the Linnell schedule, in its establishment of premium charges, violates Sections 10 and 11 of the Declaration of Rights as embodied in the Massachusetts constitution and also violates the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States.

Paris Police Must Learn Car Driving

Paris, Dec. 28—Ability to drive an automobile is now a requirement for all new Paris policemen. The rule is simply that candidates who can drive get the preference in appointment, but the effect has been to make men get driving licenses before applying.

100 FLIERS MAY QUIT ARMY IF NOT PROMOTED

Washington, Dec. 28—Warning that 100 more of Uncle Sam's crack fliers in the Army Air Service may resign unless Congress acts quickly to insure them merited promotion has been given by Representative Furlow (R.), of Minnesota.

Furlow, himself a World War flier, advanced the following facts to illustrate the "critical and deplorable condition" now prevailing in the service:

1. All but one of the round-the-world fliers, who won undying fame by their exploit of a few years ago, have resigned from the service.

2. Practically all the fliers who served in the World War are still first lieutenants, the same rank they held when the war ended.

3. Some of the most valued men in the air corps have resigned in the last few years to accept responsible positions with civil aviation concerns and still more are expected to follow in their footsteps.

The round-the-world fliers who resigned were First Lieuts. Leigh Wade, H. H. Ogden and Erik Nelson and Second Lieut. H. H. Arnold. Of this group, Capt. Smith alone remains in service.

Others who have resigned include Lieuts. H. J. A. Macready, at one time holder of the world's altitude record, and the first non-stop transcontinental flyer; S. N. Monteith outstanding aeronautical engineer, and J. P. Van Zandt, an authority on World War flying.

The Furlow bill which would correct this situation by providing a separate promotion list for the Army Air Corps, has been passed by the House and now is awaiting action in the Senate.

Officer Heston shrilled his whistle and bought "Bossy" up standing. Scranton officials, however, explained the identity of the chunky driver and the policeman let "Bossy" go.

BULL! WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
SH-SH WE KNOW I DON'T WE?
I'M GOING TO FIND THIS "KNOCK-OUT" AND KNOCK HIM OUT!

"MY dear, I'm all-of-a-PUFF-and-PANT at this point because I've been simply conGEALED with apprehENsion all DAY, my dear, because I mean BULL'S on the rampAGE, no less, and I'm PETrified about the situation, my dear, because ARab's kind of EGGing him ON to find this 'JONES' person he imagines I've got the YEN for and between ARab and his own imagiNAtion the great goofer's worked himself into a perfect SPASM of RAGE, my dear, and I'm ACTually TERrified of him because I REALLY think he's practicably capable of SLAYing somebody at this point, no less—can you COPE with it?

"Well, ANYways, my dear, I dont s'pose I OUGHT to have kept on KIDding him considering the STATE he was in but I simply COULDN'T refrain from telling him, when he asked me in FEBrile ACcents what this 'JONES' person was LIKE, that he was a KNOCK-out, whereupon he started OFF in a perfect FRENsy by roaring that he was going to FIND this knock-out and KNOCK him OUT—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean I HONestly think the poor benny's MIND has given WAY under the STRAIN and he's comPLETEly deMENted or something, my dear, but I thought I'd have hysTERics at the SPECtacle he presented because I mean he LOOKS like NOTHing HUman when he's all hot and BOTHered, my dear, do you know what I mean?"

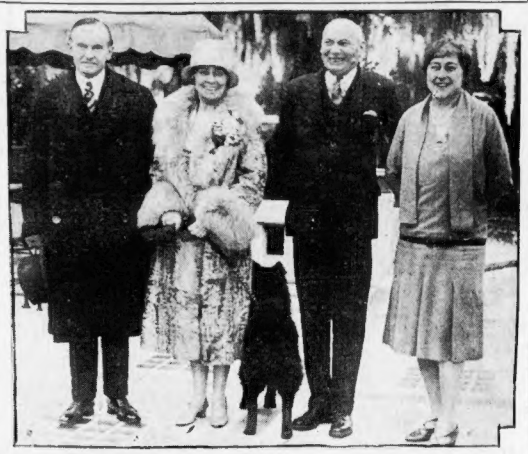
SOCIETY WOMAN FINDS THAT SHE HAS TWO 'HUSBANDS'

COOLIDGES ON A WINTER HOLIDAY



PRESIDENT AND FIRST LADY IN SUNNY SOUTH

President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge as they looked when snapped by International Newsreel cameraman at Sapelo Island, Ga., where they are enjoying a winter vacation. They are shown here with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Coffin, at whose beautiful Southern home they are guests. Sapelo Island is owned by Mr. Coffin.

DIVORCE WON IN MEXICO IS NOT VALID IN U. S.

Bridgeport, Ct., Dec. 28.—In Mexico, Mrs. Eleanor Parsons Lay (Korsman) is a once divorced lady with a second husband, but in Connecticut, according to law, she has never been divorced and has two husbands.

Therefore Mrs. Lay, who is officially Mrs. Korsnap across the southwest border, has started her third attempt to divorce her first husband, William Lay, millionaire real estate operator of Springfield, Mass.

It was nine years ago when the society woman, then Eleanor Parson, was married to Lay in Springfield.

Three years later she sought a divorce but was unsuccessful. In 1924 she made a second attempt in which she charged cruel and abusive treatment. Her millionaire husband crossed this suit with one charging her with indiscretions.

Both suits were heard simultaneously, and Mrs. Lay testified that her husband once had threatened to cut her to pieces and strew the pieces along the highway.

He denied the allegation and retaliated by testifying that Mrs. Lay, in company with another woman, had received a man guest in her room, after all in the house, including Lay and the guests, had ostensibly retired.

Both divorce suits were disallowed in Superior Court at Springfield.

$10,000 Fire in Block

Eastport, Me., Dec. 28—Fire of unknown origin damaged the Sharland block here to the extent of $10,000.

BRIDE FOR ONE DAY HAS HER MARRIAGE ANNULLED

COURT DECREES

'WHOOPIE FIGHT' IS FIXED UP, SAYS LOTTIE

DAUGHERTY AND JAEGER 'GOOD PALS' AGAIN

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 28 (AP)—Lottie Pickford, screen star, said today: "Oh, the boys just raised a little whoopee, but they're good friends now."

She was describing the fight between Jack Daugherty, husband of othe late Barbara La Marr, and Daniel E. Jaeger, admirer of Miss Pickford, in front of her home Christmas eve.

"I don't know what the scrap was about—I didn't get home until it was about over," said Miss Pickford. "But I know they have patched up the row and there won't be any complaints."

Hollywood police called to the scene of the fight by neighbors reported that Miss Pickford was "badly beaten up." The screen star told them, they said, that she did not know how she received the "numerous bruises and scratches."

Miss Pickford also took occasion to deny recent news dispatches from New York that photostatic copies of promissory notes signed by her were found in the apartment of Sidney Stager, secretary to Arnold Rothstein, slain New York gambler.

"How ridiculous," she said. "I didn't even know the man; and as for writing a note for $100,000—don't be foolish."

WOMAN DROWNS IN AUTO AFTER A DANCE

Returning from a dance at Shadeland Village where she had chaperoned four young people, including her own son, Mrs. Melvin Dunbar, 47, of 168 Chestnut st., Cambridge, was drowned in a small brook on South Border rd., Medford, today when the automobile carrying the party left the road and overturned.

Karl Rund, son of Dr. Charles Rund, dentist, of 432 South Huntington ave., Jamaica Plain, and who was driver of the machine, his sister Dorothy, 19; his chum, Melvin Dunbar, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Lawson, 18, of Reed st., Dedham, escaped with bruises.

Those are owned by the Dunbars pinned Mrs. Dunbar in the water of the brook, which is only 500 feet from the Metropolitan aPrk police station.

The unusual accident occurred on the main road from Reading and Stoneham to Medford and Boston, near the junction of Forest st. with Border rd. Rund st. and the Fellsway, just below Spot Pond.

According to the police Karl Rund of 432 South Huntington ave., Roxbury, was driving the car which also contained his daughter Dorothy, 19; Miss Dorothy Lawson, 18, of Reed st., Dedham; Mrs. Dunbar and her son.

There was a heavy fog at the time and police say Rund lost the road, the car skidding an embankment, shooting into the air and overturning in the brook which normally contains only a few inches of water.

Mrs. Dunbar was pressed down into the brook by the heavy machine in such a way that she drowned in a very few minutes, according to the police.

The fire department was called by telephone to lift the car and Patrolman Augustus Houghton of the Metropolitan Park police, with Samuel Pugh of 741 Fellsway West, assisted Deputy Fire Chief John Quaid and Lieut. James Maher to remove the body.

It was rushed to the Lawrence Memorial Hospital, and though pronounced dead on arrival, the firemen used a pulmotor for another hour without success.

The other occupants of the machine were also taken to the hospital, but were discharged after their minor injuries were treated.

BEGS TO RETURN HOME

MISSING REVERE WIFE

Mrs. Madeline Antonelli disappeared last March for the second time in eight months, taking two youngest children. Now she writes one of the sons to ask the father to take her back. He says he's willing, but she gave no address.

Fleas Have Fleas That Bite 'Em and Then—

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Science proved today that the famous verses about fleas weren't very far from the truth. They would, in fact, be almost perfectly accurate if they were made to read:

"Great wasps have little wasps upon their backs to bite 'em,
And little wasps have lesser wasps and so ad infinitum."

The "great wasps" concerned are those that feed upon the common plant lice. They really are little wasps, but are much greater in size than the "lesser wasps."

The "great wasp" lays its egg inside the plant insect which is less than an eighth of an inch in length, Dr. Grace H. Griswold of Cornell, told the Entomological Society of America.

This egg hatches into a tiny grub, which consumes the insect, leaving only a hollow shell, meanwhile, a "little wasp" comes along and lays its egg inside the grub.

The second egg hatches, and the grub eats up the "great wasp's grub, but then, along comes a "lesser wasp," and does the same thing to the second grub that the second grub did to the first.

"Perhaps there is a fourth little wasp that attacks the tuird little wasp, and so 'ad infinitum'," Dr. Griswold suggested. "It may be true, but it would be difficult to prove."

STOCKS AGAIN SOAR IN BIG MARKET DAY

Stocks moved smartly upward at the opening in Wall Street today. It was a continuation of Thursday's closing rally, stimulated by the unexpected drop in brokers' loans.

Stock sales in the first half-hour were close to 800,000 shares. Buying orders piled up faster than the market could handle them, the ticker fell behind about 20 minutes and emergency reporting of quotations over the bond tape was again resorted to.

Wall Street heard that the bankers would do all in their power to prevent the money rate from soaring above 12 per cent, even to resort to the Federal Reserve banks were necessary.

Erie was again the feature of the rails, with a new 32 jump to the year's highest price of 72¾. Chesapeake & Ohio firmed up on announcement tof complete withdrawal of minority opposition to merging of the road in the greater Nickel Plate system.

A rally set in soon after noon.

Wilkins All Ready For Polar Storms

By CAPT. HUBERT WILKINS

Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition

(Copyright, 1928, by Boston Evening American and Universal Service, Inc.: Copyright in Great Britain, France, Germany and all other countries. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part.)

Deception Island, Antarctica, Dec. 28 —(Friday, via Whaler Hektoria and KUP, San Francisco Examiner wireless station)—The unusually calm weather prevailing here has given us an opportunity to prepare for the polar storms certain to follow. Today we have been securing guy ropes on the planes and making everything shipshape ashore.

Conditions at present are exceptional. Calm, albeit cloudy weather, has been the order lately, despite the fact that meteorological records, maintained for the last 23 years, show this area always before at this season has experienced violent storms.

The polar regions are places where you never can foretell anything and only the fortunate tell afterward. Therefore, our precautions to make everything ready.

We have recently developed all our still pictures and tests of cine-film on hand. We seem to have a fair photographic record of our flights to date.

Mrs. Langley Will Stick to Her Job

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Katherine Langley, representative from Kentucky, announced today she had no intention of retiring from politics.

Her husband, whom she succeeded in the House after he was sentenced to two years in prison for violating the prohibition law, received a full pardon from President Coolidge at Christmas, making him again eligible for election. Speculation has been heard as to whether he again would seek office.

AL SMITH PLANS TOUR ABROAD IN SPRING

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 28 (INS)—For years Governor Smith has longed to visit Europe and now he has determined to make his dream come true.

Within the next few months, probably April, Governor and Mrs. Smith will sail for London, it was learned today on reliable authority.

From London they will go to Ireland, where the Governor's mother was born. Then places of interest on the Continent will be visited, the entire trip to take about two months.

Governor Smith's mother, who died several years ago, was born in County Meath, Ireland. He has two uncles in County Cavan.

Gov. Smith has refused to discuss his plans except to say he would go "job hunting" after the first of the year. According to reports here, he will not have much trouble in finding a job that will pay him more than the $25,000 a year he has received as chief executive.

Gov. Smith is anxious to step from under the cares of chief executive and has told friends he feels he is entitled to a real vacation. He wants to make a good connection in the business world, however, before he goes abroad.

On at least two occasions in the last four years he has been invited by some of his wealthy friends to accompany him to Europe. Much as he wanted to go, he declined, saying he was compelled to remain in Albany because of his duties.

FEAR KIDNAPED N. Y. CHILD IS MURDERED

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—Failure of kidnapers to keep a rendezvous with the father of a 14-year-old girl missing since December 1 may mean that ransom has been spurned and murder commited.

This was the fear that gripped the heart today of Frederick Kiesow, whose daughter, Dorothy, has not been seen since she started out for the Immaculate Conception school the morning of December 1.

Kiesow received news that his daughter was alive in a death-threat note yesterday which demanded immediate ransom. The letter, written in obvious affected scrawl, had been mailed in the same neighborhood.

Dies at Wheel of Car

Rockland, Dec. 28 — Perry Rice, lawyer and real estate promoter, died of heart trouble while driving his automobile on Union st., near Bigelow st., this town. The car went off the road and continued 200 yards into a field before it stopped.

Lynn Boy Vanishes from Home to 'Make Good in World'

"Mamma and Papa: I am going out into the world to make good. If I do make good, I'll return in five years."

That was 15-year-old Hyman Barron's note to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barron of Blossom st., Lynn, when he left home.

Lynn police and Greater Boston authorities are looking for Hyman today.

They think he'll turn up in less than five years—and Dad Barron will make him good.

With a shingle perhaps.

FREAK 'FIRE' ON PLANE

Providence, Dec. 28 (INS)—Leaving here today for New York on the second leg of a transcontinental flight, Lieut. James F. Dyer, crack navy air pilot of San Diego, Cal., who arrived here from Portland, Me., after his plane had been reported afire, explained that rumors of fire aboard his plane probably were due to the glow from the exhaust, which is always visible at twilight.

Refusal to Take Feet From Seat in Train Leads to Stabbing

New Albany, Ind., Dec. 28 (AP)—James D. Mackechnie, 43, of Brattleboro, Vt., is in a hospital with a slashed throat, the outcome of a quarrel with W. H. Davis, 45, of Louisville, Ky., over an unoccupied seat on a train.

An altercation ensued when Davis, his wife and young son attempted to use a seat on which Mackechnie had his feet. Witnesses said Mackechnie began to beat Davis' head on the floor when the latter drew a pocket knife and slashed his assailant.

Davis was released by police when no request to hold him was received from Harrison County where the altercation took place.

Costs More to Keep Horse Than It Does a Wife

Chicago, Dec. 28 (INS)—It costs $9.50 a week more to support a horse than it does a wife, according to records on file in Judge Jacob Fisher's court.

The judge awarded Mrs. Pauline Kosoff $4 a week for support when he granted her separate maintenance plea after the defendant, Samuel Kosoff, testified it takes $13.50 of his weekly earnings as a pedlar to keep his horse.

HOOVER RESTS AS TRIP HOME NEARS END

Aboard U. S. S. Utah (via Arlington, Va., Radio Station), Dec. 28—Bringing President-elect Hoover and his Latin-American "good-will" party back to the United States at the rate of about 250 miles a day, the battleship Utah was to cross the equator some time today, probably late in the afternoon.

Mr. Hoover is spending every possible moment in recreation and rest. He has nine days more of pleasant idleness to look forward to. After that he will have to shoulder the weighty problems of state facing him before he is inaugurated.

He must pick a Cabinet, appoint officers to various governmental posts and confer with leaders in the Senate and House of Representatives regarding legislative problems.

While the Utah steamed about 30 miles off the coast of northern Brazil yesterday afternoon, the President-elect was an interested spectator of a ship drill consisting of battle practice and theoretical firing of the long range guns.

While Mr. Hoover has mapped out his inaugural speech, his first state paper, in a general way, its actual writing will require some time as was demonstrated during his political campaign. He likes to give his full attention to the preparation of an address, dressing his words until they suit him in the smallest particular.

The general belief is that Secretary Mellon will remain as the head of the Treasury Department, and possibly that one other member of the cabinet of President Coolidge will be retained.

BOY SKATING CHAMPION

U. S. Ship on Rocks Is Refloated

Belfast, Ireland, Dec. 28 (AP)—The American freighter West Totant, which ran aground in Bangor bay on December 21, was refloated today and was proceeding to a Belfast dry dock.

The vessel left New Orleans on November 27 for Glasgow and Belfast. She struck the rocks at full speed and one of her holds was flooded, giving her a slight list to starboard.

Tunis Newspaper Bombed

Tunis, Algeria, Dec. 28 (AP)—A bomb exploded in the offices of the Italian language newspaper, Unione, today, causing damage estimated at 100,000 francs.

BOLIVIA BREAKS 'TRUCE,' CLAIM BY PARAGUAY

Washington, Dec. 28 (INS)—Grave charges made by Paraguay in advices to its legation here that Bolivian forces had reoccupied Fort Vanguardia in the disputed Chaco territory, caused uneasiness today on the eve of what were believed to be successful efforts of the Pan-American conference to keep the two countries out of war.

The Maurtua special conciliation committee was awaiting acceptance by the Bolivian and Paraguayan governments of a protocol of conciliation which representatives of both countries had helped draw up.

The message received by Paraguayan Charge d'Affaires Ramirez said:

"Bolivian forces have occupied anew Fort Vanguardia, abandoned after the first happening. The troops (Bolivian) still retain Boqueron (a Paraguayan fort) and have advanced four leagues (12 miles) further into the interior, threatening the zone occupied by the Mennonite colony. All this took place without fighting, taking advantage of the order given our troops to cease hostilities.

"As soon as it accepted the good offices of the government at Washington, this government revoked the order to reoccupy Boqueron, as proof of good faith.

"All the foregoing shows Bolivia has not complied with its promises and a very grave situation again is created, because Paraguay alone cannot avoid new fighting."

Final work on a treaty for obligatory arbitration among nations comprising the Americas, will be begun today by a drafting committee, for submission to the Pan-American conference. Agreement on basic principles was reached by a subcommittee which had been threshing the problem several days.

Wilson Peace Award Omitted This Year

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—The annual dinner of the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation will be held tonight at the Hotel Astor, but there will be no $25,000 award made this year for the most significant contribution to international peace and good will.

The committee on awards could not agree on any person to receive the honor, although Secretary of State Kellogg had been under consideration for his anti-war pact. Governor-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will head the list of notables who will attend the dinner.

Five Driven Out by Fire in Lynn

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Shea, their four-year-old son, Fred, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hodge, all occupants of an apartment house at 28 Wade st., Lynn, were driven to the street in their night clothes today by a fire that started in the boiler room.

They were awakened by John Hoyt, janitor of a nearby block. He broke down a door to give his warning. Damage by fire and smoke amounted to $1000.

Organize Support for Cruiser Bill

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—A move to organize Nation-wide support for the 15-cruiser navy bill was announced today by Capt. G. F. Unoacht, secretary-treasurer of the Sojourners, a national Masonic organization of army, navy, Marine Corps and reserve officers. He said the Sojourners' annual meeting January 11 would be devoted to the organization of every possible means to bring about passage of the bill.

GIRL TIED WITH MAN IN TALK MARATHON

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—Fourteen jagged-throated entries, without benefit of straight jackets, continue to sing, gibber, and otherwise hold incoherent communication with themselves today at the "talking Marathon."

At the sixty-ninth hour of the weirdest contest in history since Eve asked Adam for a new Easter leaf, Betty Wilson, of Erie, Pa., former swimmer at Carnegie Tech and ex-show girl, was tongue-tied for first place with Albert Williams, of San Antonio, Texas, parachute jumper and flagpole sitter. Each registered no time out at 10:30 a. m.

Experts predict that Miss Wilson and Williams will finish in a deadlock of illiterate verbiage when the final period is called at midnight on Saturday.

This situation will call for a playoff and if the public insists on buying tickets to hear nothing in particular, Promoter Milt Crandall will let like the gentleman he is. Of course, Williams, not having his flagpole with him, will be at a disadvantage.

The predictionary should also contain the possibility of a cough drop concern taking the winner of the contest to its bosom.

The standing at 11 a. m. of the "gab fat" gladiators follows:

Betty Williams and Howard Williams (tied). No time out.

Jeannette Marlow, New York, eight minutes out.

Claude Yeomans, Australia, nine minutes out.

Helen Marsin, Astoria, Long Island, 14 minutes out.

Herbert A. Vos, New York, one hour 24 minutes out.

Jack Schoenfeldt, New York, one hour 45 minutes out.

Joseph Governale, Brooklyn, one hour 5 minutes out.

George Palmer, Woodside, Long Island, two hours 30 minutes out.

Maurice Holod, New York, two hours 45 minutes out.

Albert Hara, Brooklyn, four hours four minutes out.

Senorita Angela Arsuaga, Monterey, Mexico, eight hours out.

Mademoiselle Marie Guimpire, France, way out.

Gertrude Davis, Somerville, N. J., 12 hours 29 minutes.

SEES A SECOND FLU OUTBREAK THIS WINTER

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Another outbreak of influenza, more severe in nature than the disease now prevailing, is regarded a possibility later in the winter by Surgeon-General Cumming. He said that he viewed the situation at present as serious, but declared that the present wave is mild in character and that there is an apparent absence of complications.

There is little likelihood in the opinion of the surgeon-general that the disease will not spread over the Atlantic states, as it has the West and parts of the South.

"This seems to be a typical influenza epidemic," he said, "and it is similar to the 1918 outbreak in the mildness of the first cases."

Deaths in the 1918 wave of influenza were 500,000 in excess of the normal number from the malady, and in 1920 there were 100,000 excess deaths, but in 1926 there were only between 15,000 and 20,000. Indications thus far have led Surgeon-General Cumming to believe that mortality this year may be greater than in 1926.

He agreed with the estimate by public health officers that there were approximately a million and a quarter new cases in the United States during the week ending December 22. This estimate was based on 240,503 cases actually reported from all but seven states.

POISONING MAY BE RESULT OF NAVY FEUD

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—Henry S. Gaw, 29-year-old chemist's helper found poisoned yesterday morning in the metallurgical research laboratory of the Guggenheim Brothers here, may have been the victim of a feud begun on the floor of the ocean. Police learned that Gaw and James Baker, 22, former laboratory helper, for whom they are searching, both served on a navy submarine.

The peculiar character of Gaw's death, which preceded by three hours the assault and robbery of two Baltimore truckmen at the plant, led police to advance several other theories.

They believed the theft of a few dollars from the person of one of the truckmen was merely a "blind" to cover up the real motive. The poisoner probably was actuated by revenge or a desire to gain possession of some secret chemical formula, they said.

The victim's gums and lips were blistered from cyanide that evidently had been forced down his throat after being mixed in a cup of coffee standing on a table nearby.

PROBE AUTOIST SHOOTING

Keene, N. H., Dec. 28—Police of this city and Brattleboro, Vt., today expressed doubt that Mr. Maurice Monette, 21, of Brattleboro, in a serious condition at the Elliott Community Hospital, with a bullet wound in his chest, was shot by the accidental discharge of his own revolver.

Monette said that an automatic pistol he was carrying in his pocket discharged as he was bending over to fix a tire. Police, however, say that the wound indicates that the pistol was placed against his body just above the heart, and that it could not have been in his pocket.

Monette was found beside his automobile by a party of Brattleboro men who brought him to the hospital here. There was a flat tire on his machine, which seemed to bear out his story, but police have since learned that he was disappointed over a love affair.

Dorchester Man Held on Forgery Charge

Springfield, Dec. 28—Waving examination in district court on a charge of forgery, Jacob G. Weiner, 23, of 13 Lorn av., Dorchester, was held for the Grand Jury. He was charged with passing a worthless check for $300, drawn on a Boston bank, on a Springfield automobile dealer last spring.

Idaho Seems to Be 'Healthiest' State

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Idaho seems to have a claim as the healthiest State. Official statistics give it a death rate in 1927 of 7.1 per 1000 population, the lowest.

The highest rate, 13.0, was in California, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Burglar-Novelist Earns $7000 in Cell

Columbus, O., Dec. 28 (AP)—John L. Murphy, who is serving a sentence in State Prison for burglary, is credited with having made $7000 last year by writing fiction. His sentence has been commuted so that he is eligible for parole.

40,000 Millionaires Lead Stock Gamble

Chicago, Dec. 28 (AP)—There are now something like 40,000 millionaires. One of the reasons therefor, as expressed by Carl Snyder, New York banker, to the American Statistical Association, is the greatest gamble the world has ever known, stocks.

Afghan Rebels Cut Kabul Light, Power

New Delhi, India, Dec. 28 (AP)—Latest reports from Afghanistan today said the rebels had succeeded in cutting off the electric lights and power for government factories in Kabul.

It appears that the most severe fighting occurred around the British legation at Kabul. Eight buildings in the grounds were severely damaged by shelling. Stables and the power house suffered considerably, although the machinery in the power house is intact.

Marriage Plans Come as Surprise

Relatives of Miss Doris Barnes Hawker, 20, of 47 Bartlett ave., Arlington, and Grover Mason Gaffney, 25, of 325 Massachusetts ave., Lexington, learned with surprise that the couple had filed marriage intentions at the city clerk's office in the couple had filed marriage intentions at the city clerk's office in Pawtucket, R. I. Relatives of both said they had not heard whether the couple had eloped or whether they are planning to be married at a future date.

New U. S. to Sweden Flight Is Planned

Bradford, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP)—Another attempt to fly from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden, will be made by Parker Kramer and Bert Hassell who were lost for two weeks in Greenland on a similar attempt 11 a year.

The flight will start about the middle of June, Kramer asserted, and the route will be the same as that traversed last summer. Hassell is now in Rockford arranging for the financing of the trip.

49 NEW CASES OF FLU IN STATE

the number reported for the entire year of 1927, 5,691.

PNEUMONIA INCREASES.

Lobar pneumonia cases reported today numbered 42, compared with 11 a week ago. The week's record of this disease so far is 140, compared with 96 for the same number of days the previous week. The year's total is 4715 as against 4158 for the prior 12 months.

Dr. Bigelow minimized the indicated spread of influenza in the State. While the influenza reports, he said, show more than five times more cases than reported two weeks ago, this does not necessarily indicate the true condition. It might mean these cases are five times as frequently being called influenza and therefore reportable.

SEES SLIGHT DANGER.

In referring to predictions that a second more serious wave of influenza may follow the present mild wave sweeping the country, he said:

"Experience in Massachusetts and elsewhere indicates the interval between the first and second waves is a question of months, not days or weeks, so that if the predictions are correct the second wave should not be expected until summer or fall."

The commissioner declared that the advice already given in regard to prevention and treatment of colds and grippe, "which no one questions are in our midst," should be carefully observed.

CROWDS DANGEROUS

"Colds and grippe," he warned, "are not trivial. They are spread by the personal transfer of saliva, the spraying of which is most menacing in crowds.

"Their most alarming feature is the possible complication of pneumonia, which can be best avoided by staying in bed early in a room at an even temperature, particularly if the patient's temperature is over 99, and obtaining advice, not from a crystal gazer, but from a physician."

Thirteen new cases were reported to the Quincy Board of Health today, making a total of 21 since the first report 10 days ago.

Included in the new victims is Fire Lieut. Peter Creedon of the Quincy department, but his case, as are most, is mild.

Since the first report there has been one death, that of a woman.

Chief Justice Hall Portrait Is Hung

Worcester, Dec. 28—A portrait of Chief Justice Walter Perley Hall of the superior court, given by the Worcester County Bar to the County of Worcester, is to be hung in the criminal courtroom in the county building today.

Dist.-Atty. Charles B. Rugg is chairman of the committee of arrangements. The portrait has been on exhibition in the Corcoran Gallery in Washington. Previously it had been shown in Boston.

'Mother Hubbards' Popular on Islands

Geneva, Dec. 28—The "Mother Hubbard" introduced by American missionaries into the Far East still is the dress of natives of the former German islands in the Pacific Ocean, now under the mandate of Japan.

The International colony at Geneva learned this when the Japanese Government presented a film showing the conditions in the Caroline and Marshall Islands, and indicating the progress of the territories under the trusteeship of the Japanese Empire.

Cunard Line Cashier to Retire Dec. 31

Rounding out a half a century of service to the Cunard Steamship Co., 30 years of which time have been spent with the local agency, Tyson Waters, company cashier, is to retire on Dec. 31.

She's Aided Victims in 9 Crashes at Fatal Crossing

Webster, Dec. 28 (AP)—So many accidents have happened at Walsh's Crossing near her home that every time Mrs. Henry Havey hears a crash, she instinctively grabs her wraps and runs to the railroad crossing to assist the injured.

The casualty yesterday when a train hit an automobile operated by Gustave Stein of North Grosvenor Dale, Ct., critically injuring him, was the ninth she has attended, she said. Mrs. Havey was the first to reach the in-

VISIT OF U. S. FLEET TO PERU CANCELLED

Washington, Dec. 28—The scouting fleet of the United States Navy will not visit the west coast of South America this spring, Without explanation the Navy Department has cancelled the proposed sailing of the war craft to Callao, Peru, while Secretary Wilbur refuses to make any statement in connection with the change in plans.

Some weeks ago the schedule for the fleet's activities was announced by the Navy Department. The scouting and battle fleet were to assemble in the Panama Canal area for maneuvers and on Feb. 21 the scouting fleet was to pass through the canal and move down the coast of South America to Peru.

It is generally believed here that President-elect Hoover is responsible for the canceling of the fleet's sailing program. It is felt that at this time a display of armed force on the part of the United States might be misunderstood and much of the good accomplished by Hoover's goodwill visit might be undone.

START SOUTH JAN. 8

The visit of the ships of the fleet to Callao was planned from the first as affording an opportunity to give the blue jackets shore leave in a region they seldom visit, and more especially as a gesture of good will toward Latin-America. Second thought has apparently developed a belief that in some sections of South America and among some elements of the population of Latin-America the cruise might be misinterpreted.

Should any widespread misapprehension arise as to the motive, it is feared in some quarters that much of the good performed by President-elect Hoover in his mission of good-will to South America might be undone. Rather than run the risk, the Coolidge government decided against sending the fleet south of Panama. The navy announcement read:

The scouting fleet will leave Hampton Roads, Va., on Jan. 4 and proceed to the Panama area where it will join the battle fleet for combined operation and incident maneuvers. There they will be joined by 24 Martin torpedo planes which will fly from Hampton Roads with the mine layers Murray and Mehan acting as guard ships.

The scouting fleet will leave Guantanamo at the end of April and proceed to New York for leave and liberty in May. The battleships and cruisers will then go to the Chesapeake bay area for tactical exercises.

GUNNERY EXERCISES

The battle fleet will leave the San Pedro area on Jan. 15 to join the scouting fleet in the gulf of Panama. Until early in March both the scouting fleet and battle fleet will be based on the canal zone, participating in various fleet problems at sea and returning to their base for fuel, supplies, liberty and athletics.

The scouting fleet will leave the canal zone on March 8 for Guantanamo, arriving March 11, where scheduled gunnery exercises will be held. The battle fleet will leave the canal zone on March 11 for San Pedro, arriving there about March 23.

HIT PEDESTRIAN FLEEING SCENE OF HOLDUP

Brockton, Dec. 28.—Police of Brockton and surrounding cities and towns are combing the section for two men in a stolen machine who held up a chain store proprietor here, brutally attacked and robbed him, and then struck a pedestrian as they were fleeing in their sedan.

The proprietor, John A. Niles, who conducts a store on South Franklin st., Brookville, just north of this city, is suffering severe cuts about the head inflicted by one of the thugs with the butt end of a revolver, while the other rifled the cash register of $30 and secured $5 more from Niles' wallet.

James F. Barry, 54, of Pearl st., Stoughton, was severely injured when run down by the fleeing machine in the Montello section of this city.

Police secured the registration of the machine from Miss Dorothy Mills, 16-year-old girl, who noticed the occupants of the car acting in a suspicious manner.

Niles was waiting upon a customer in his store when the first of the two young men, who are about 25 years of age, entered the store.

The young man asked for some apples as the customer was leaving and when Niles bent over to get the apples the man ordered him to throw his hands up and then pushed him into the back room.

There he struck the proprietor over the head with the butt of a pistol he produced. Niles fell back and struck his head against a box.

The second man then entered the store and rifled the cash register of all but one cent. The first holdup man searched the pockets of Niles, securing the wallet, which contained $8, and an automobile license and registration.

Bride Just Can't Stand This "Absent Love"

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—Saying that her husband, Gordon B. Kinsey, former attorney-general of Kentucky, had made a wedding compact specifying they should remain separated for the first year of their marriage, a woman who said she was Mrs. Kinsey returned from France today declaring she was unable to "stay out the year."

However, she left only seven weeks short of the arrangement.

They were married Feb. 16, she said. Because Kinsey was not expecting her home until February, he was not here to meet her, the bride said, adding that she was hastening to their home in Louisville where she felt "certain of her welcome."

"I'm taking the first train," she said. "I won't wait for the year to end. I'll be so glad to see him that I'll even be willing to wash dishes."

MRS. COOLIDGE MAY TRY SHOT AT QUAIL

Sapelo Island, Ga., Dec. 28 (AP)—President Coolidge's first taste of Georgia hunting proved so much to his liking that today he asked for more.

Accordingly a party was made up to accompany the Chief Executive on a second trip to the hunting preserves of his host, Howard E. Coffin, whose island estate is stocked with game birds. Today Mr. Coolidge was in search of quail, on Sapelo Island itself, while yesterday he was successful in bagging pheasants and wild turkey on another island, a short distance away, known as Little Sapelo.

MRS. COOLIDGE TO HUNT.

Mrs. Coolidge agreed to go along and watch and possibly to put her own marksmanship to the test.

The President, recalling his recent unsuccessful venture after quail in Virginia, was elated by the results of yesterday's hunting. Three pheasants whirring before the Chief Executive in swift flight fell before his marksmanship and to these he added two wild turkeys, while Col. E. W. Starling of the White House Secret Service, the only member of the party to engage in the shooting, increased the day's bag by three pheasants.

NEW HOBBY.

Shooting is, for the President, a recently cultivated hobby. He received his first taste of the sport blazing away at clay pigeons during his vacation last summer in Wisconsin and when he visited the Swannanoa Country club at Waynesboro, Va., last month, traps were provided for his amusement. Over these Mr. Coolidge again succeeded in running up imposing scores, but he was unsuccessful when he went hunting for quail during his stay there.

An invitation to hunt for bigger game has been sent to Mr. Coolidge by Jack Williams, publisher of the Waycross (Ga.) Journal-Herald, who has asked the President to visit his place for the purpose of shooting bear.

LIGHT IS TESTED AT AIRPORT

The newly-developed General Electric flood light was tested at the Boston Airport, with a group of city, army and commercial flying officials present.

Lieutenants Ralph T. Wickford, Adolph M. Backstrom of the Boston Airport Corporation, and Crocker Snow, Charles L. Emerson and Jack Langley of Skyways, Inc., and Capt. Richard W. Mackie of Colonial Air Transport, flew planes to test the light.

The decision of the pilots will be written to Commissioner William P. Long, and their testimony will have a lot to do with the purchasing of a flood light.

French Give Germans $10,800,000 Jobs

Berlin, Dec. 28 (AP)—A German group of building contractors has obtained contracts in France on the reparations account amounting to 45,000,000 marks (approximately $10,800,000).

About 1800 German workers will be employed on the undertakings, which include new quays in Bordeaux, power stations in the Pyrenees, improvement of Seine harbor, canalization of the Rhone river and changing of the course of the Alpine river at Verdon. The Germans will have their own canteens, athletic grounds, hospitals, theater and barracks.

John D., Sr., Last on Santa's List

Ormond Beach, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—Surrounded by about 30 friends and neighbors, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., celebrated the Yule season here last night.

Christmas carols, led by a quartet from the Lions Club, and joined in by the guests, were sung preceding the opening of presents which had been piled high about the Christmas tree. Santa Claus put in a belated appearance to distribute the gifts to both young and old.

Ten gallons of ice cream, cakes, cookies, coffee and sandwiches were served.

Motorist in Death Case Held in $800

Provincetown, Dec. 28 — Thomas Larkin of Harwich was arraigned in District Court, charged with drunkenness, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, operating to endanger and technical manslaughter in causing the death of Hattie T. Baker of Harwich.

The case was continued to the session of District Court at Harwich, January 4. Larkin was released in $800, furnished by J. Richard Larkin of Boston.

Boy Scouts Search for Missing Hunter

Providence, Dec. 28—Police and Boy Scouts were today searching woods and thickets in West Warwick and Coventry for Harry Green, 65, of Centerville.

Green has been missing since Wednesday when he went on a hunting trip from which he expected to return before dark. He is subject to attacks of acute indigestion, and it is feared he collapsed in some lonely spot.

Shin Captain Goes to Sea for Vacation

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Like the watchman on his night off in Karl Bodmer, master mariner. After nine years at sea without a vacation, he got one of six weeks, and promptly took a transatlantic voyage.

EVA BOOTH IN NO HASTE TO HEAD SALLIES

Southampton, Eng., Dec. 28 (AP)—Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, on arrival here today for the meeting of the high council of the army, decried reports that the American branch was backing her to succeed her brother, Gen. Bramwell Booth, as commander-in-chief.

"If you know Americans at all," she said, "you know that when anything is on the board they run wild with suggestions. I can merely say that I am going to the high council with entire confidence that my officers and people in America are behind me.

"To discuss now my plans I might have in mind would be a breach of hospitality. Army officials from all over the United States have expressed confidence that the high council will act for the best interests of all."

Miss Booth said she would visit her brother, who has been gravely ill, at the earliest opportunity, but just when she would see him would depend upon word from his family when she reaches London.

WILL COMPLETE CAPETOWN HOP

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Van Lear Black, publisher of the Baltimore Sun, will leave for London on the Majestic tomorrow to complete his unfinished flight from London to Capetown and return.

He has bought a new Fokker plane, of the same make as the one in which he flew from Amsterdam to the Dutch East Indies, via India, in the summer of 1927. He will take the same pilot who guided his several European and African flights in the last few years.

On May 14 last Black started on a flight from London to Capetown, but abandoned the flight at Khartum, in the Sudan, because of engine difficulties.

When he returns to London from Capetown, Mr. Black expects to fly to Tokio and return, and then bring his plane to America.

CALL 5 MORE TO LYNN INQUEST

Five new witnesses, including State Fire Marshal George C. Neal, were called today at the conclusion of the inquest on the fatal fire and explosion at the Preblea Box Toe Company plant in Lynn November 5.

Twenty lives were snuffed out in the disaster and two of the injured are still confined to bed.

Out of 34 witnesses summoned yesterday, 14 testified at the private session in Lynn court before Judge Ralph W. Reeve.

The other new witnesses summoned today were B. Frank Mooney, Lynn city electrician; Robert Webber, a Lynn fireman who was home at the rear of the factory, and Fire Lieuts. Molder Salmons and Lewis Salmons, the former of whom had charge of periodical inspections of the building.

Photograph Violet Ray at Onion Roots

Richmond, Va., Dec. 28 (AP)—Successful efforts to photograph the ultra-violet light given off by the roots of certain growing plants and bacteria have been reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists in session here.

Detailing work in this field, Ralph H. Mellon, N. von Rashevsky and E. von Rashevsky, of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital of Pittsburgh, said the discovery that roots of onions and certain other plants threw off ultra-violet rays had been made by a European scientist. They explained that this ray is the same as that used in the cure of rickets and other diseases, but of shorter wave length.

Pittsburgh Theater Man Weds Secretly

Pittsburgh, Dec. 28 (AP)—James B. Clark, motion picture theater owner and vice-president of the Stanley Co. of America, was secretly married here to Miss Alice Leech, also of Pittsburgh.

Both bride and bridegroom have been married before. Clark's first wife died more than five years ago. Miss Leech was formerly Mrs. H. Eggers, recently resumed her maiden name. Clark, a grandfather, built up the Rowland & Clark motion picture chain. The Clarks will go to Bermuda on their honeymoon.

Letter in 2 Months, Radio in Part of a Second

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—Presidential election returns received in the South African Congo in a fraction of a second were acknowledged in a letter en route two months.

The returns were broadcast from the short wave station of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y.

The letter of appreciation, which was sent by the fastest travel routes, was received from C. R. Stegall, superintendent of the Carson Industrial school, American Presbyterian Congo Mission, Luebo, Belgian Congo.

"In behalf of the group of 14 Americans here in the heart of Africa, may I express sincere appreciation," Mr. Stegall wrote, after telling what good reception was had on the broadcast. "We knew through you of the election of our new President as quickly as did the general public in America."

Brimfield Woman Dies at 95

Brimfield, Dec. 28. (AP)—Mrs. Waitsill Crumb, 95, the town's oldest resident, is dead. She lived for a time at Rock Island Light in the St. Lawrence river, where her grandfather, William Collins, a Revolutionary soldier, was the first keeper.

LINER CELTIC IS TOTAL LOSS

Belfast, Dec. 28 (INS)—The White Star liner Celtic which went on the rocks in a fog at the entrance to Queenstown harbor, has been given up as a total loss following an inspection by the line's marine superintendent.

It was recommended that further efforts to salvage the ship be abandoned, owing to her exposed position and the huge cost involved.

The ship was insured for $1,250,000, in addition to the heavy insurance written on the cargo, all of which is understood to have been borne by Lloyds.

FIREMAN HURT IN A FALL FROM MILTON TRUCK

Eugene Thompson, 35, a fireman attached to Hose 1 of the Milton fire department, was seriously injured today when the apparatus on which he was riding to a fire skidded in Mattapan Square and threw him to the pavement.

Thompson was treated by Dr. John McPeake of Blue Hill Parkway, and was found to have sustained possible internal injuries, a fractured left arm and contusions and abrasions.

Notwithstanding his condition Thompson insisted on being taken to his home, 14 Kahler st., Milton, where it was said he might be removed to a hospital later.

SCARLET FEVER CLOSES SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The primary and kindergarten departments of three Sunday schools in the Linden section of Malden were today ordered closed until further notice on account of the increase of scarlet fever in the district. The board of health has reported 15 cases.

The churches to take action were the Linden Methodist Church, the Linden Congregational Church, and St. Luke's Episcopal Church. The closing of the Sunday schools followed a conference between pastors and board of health officials.

Chief Graham has been a member of the town police force for a year, serving as motorcycle officer.

United Fruit Co. to Fight for Island

Havana, Dec. 28—A dispute between the Cuban Government and the United Fruit Company over a tiny isle near Cuba brought a decision from the Primary Court at Banes that the property rights of Marshal Key were inherent in Cuba. It was indicated that the company will carry the case to the Supreme Court.

Smuggling and Radio Parleys are 'Doomed'

Toronto, Dec. 28 (AP)—The "Mail and Empire," in a special dispatch from Ottawa today, says the international conferences among the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba and Newfoundland on anti-smuggling, opening January 7, and on radio, opening January 9, appear doomed to failure before they meet.

The anti-smuggling talks will fail, the newspaper says, owing to the absence of cabinet representation from either the United States or Canada and the radio meeting is doomed owing to the "breach of the agreement by the United States" which was arrived at last August.

She Wed 'Boy' and at 67 Will Do It Again

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 28 (INS)—Mrs. Nellie Ellaby Doyle, reputed to be 67 and wealthy, and who married James Doyle, 22-year-old soda clerk in 1927, is reported to be contemplating another matrimonial venture.

The latest bridegroom, according to reports, is Fred Fisher, who might be 19 and might be 30. His friends credit him with the former figure, his future bride with the latter.

Mrs. Doyle, who insists she is not 67, but "under 50," divorced Doyle two months after their wedding. She charged him with using the $2000 car she gave him for associating with younger acquaintances.

Injuries Fatal

Dover, N. H., Dec. 28—Peter Avard, 51, of Nashua, a Boston & Maine railroad brakeman, died at a hospital here of injuries received at North Berwick, Maine.

Sacrifices Chance to Avoid Execution

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 28—A Christmas present that might have meant a lease on life was waived by E. V. Allen in favor of another convict in the county jail here.

Allen is condemned to die for a bank robbery, and Henry Helms faces execution for a similar crime.

On Christmas Day their jail mates took up a collection so the sentences might be appealed. There was only $75, so Allen said to Helms:

"You take it; there isn't enough for both of us to pay lawers working for the appeal. I'll take my chances of not sitting in the chair."

Fire Costly Only to the Department

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 28—A fire in a dust blower at the Felton Brush Co. factory did little damage to the building, but proved expensive to the fire department.

Lieut. H. Guy Hall sprained his ankle when he tried to jump on the running board of Truck 1. Engine 4 broke down and stopped when the driver attempted to shift into high speed.

Hose 1 made a false run to the Felton Box Co. in a different section of the city when at headquarters it was believed that the call came from there instead of the Felton brush factory.

STATE BOARD HITS AT RUM IN HOTELS

Boston hotel managers should be held responsible "for knowingly permitting the use or display of intoxicating liquor by a guest at a table," according to a statement issued by the State Licensing Board and made public by Governor Fuller.

The members of the board were inclined to compliment the Boston hotel men for the manner in which they are conducting their places of business, but it was the consensus of opinion that there is still considerable drinking going on in the hotels and the hotel men could aid materially in eliminating this.

In its report the board says:

"The furnishing by hotels and restaurants of entertainment in their dining rooms has greatly increased in recent years and seems to be still increasing. This entertainment usually consists of music, dancing and cabaret or some one or more of these forms of amusement. The cabarets and dancing are, as a rule, unobjectionable, and much of the music is pleasing. The use by patrons of intoxicating liquor at the tables, however, causes one of the hardest problems of the board. Of course not all places are alike in this respect.

"In some there is little, if any, evidence of the use of intoxicating liquor, in others there is no doubt of its use by patrons. Very little evidence is presented to the board of the furnishing of intoxicating liquors to guests by the management of hotels and the better class of restaurants, and the board believes that such furnishing is rare.

"The problem is to what extent should the management be held responsible for the use or display of intoxicating liquor at the table by a guest who has brought the liquor to the premises for consumption."

They Bet 400 to 1 Britain Stays Wet

London, Dec. 28 (INS)—Leading British brewers and distillers are taking out insurance policies at Lloyd's against the possibility of prohibition in this country.

Some of them evidently fear prohibition may be "put over unexpectedly." Dry forces in Great Britain are trying to make an issue of prohibition in the general election next year. Underwriters are issuing policies for large sums at the rate of 5 shillings for every 100 pounds. These represent "odds" of 400 to 1 and, in the opinion of experts, are not very generous.

Engineer Charged With Manslaughter

Lowell, Dec. 28 (AP)—A warrant charging manslaughter was sworn out by police today against Ester E. Eames of Medford, engineer of a Boston & Maine train which crashed int. another train here on November 19, causing the death of one man and injury to more than a score of persons.

Two victims, Samuel H. Lucas of Lowell and Freeman H. Phillips of Manchester, N. H., are still in a hospital.

New Alderman Says Official Hit Him

An alleged attack on Samuel Lansky, Malden councilor and alderman-elect, was revealed today when he sent a letter to Mayor John D. Deole of Malden, demanding the resignation of Henry Sanborn, wire inspector of that city. Lansky asked the mayor to take immediate action.

The alderman-elect charges that last night he joined a group of city officials, including Sanborn, who were talking in a corridor of Malden City Hall. He declared that as a result of talk regarding the selection of a president for the Common Council, Sanborn struck him in the face.

Seek Better Bridge Over Saugus to Lynn

Widening or rebuilding Saugus River bridge on the Lynn boulevard, between Revere and Lynn, is sought in a bill filed today at the State House by three Revere members of the Legislature.

The petitioners are Sen. Conde J. Brodbine, and Representative Augustine Airola and Thomas F. Carroll. The work would be done by the Metropolitan district commission. No estimate of cost is given.

Looks for Union of Austria and Germany

Vienna, Dec. 28 (INS)—While a union of Austria and Germany is impossible at present owing to the opposition of some of the big powers, Prof. Wilhelm Miklas, newly elected president of the republic of Austria, believes the international obstacles may be removed.

The new president is a strong critic of Italy's treatment of Austrian citizens in districts annexed by Italy since the war.

STAR NARCOTIC SLEUTH DEAD

New York, Dec. 28—James C. Kerrigan, federal narcotic sleuth who was largely responsible for the recent seizure of drugs valued at more than $2,000,000, is dead, a martyr to his work.

Federal officials today denied that Kerrigan had been poisoned by members of the drug ring. They stated that as a result of moving heavy trunks containing narcotics, he was forced to undergo a major operation and this resulted fatally.

It was Kerrigan who ran down the two black trunks containing $2,000,000 worth of drugs which were seized in the Grand Central Terminal and which led to the arrest of Joseph Unger who was taken from a train at Buffalo, N. Y. Unger later pleaded guilty and is now awaiting sentence.

Held in Pittsburgh for $125,000 Theft

Pittsburgh, Dec. 28 (INS)—Enrico Connune, 50, whom police describe as secretary of the New York Chamber of Commerce, was arrested here today by Pittsburgh and New York detectives on warrants charging him with the theft of $125,000 of the Chamber's funds.

New York police, who are said to have sought him for two months, came here on a tip that Connune had been seen in an Italian restaurant here. He was arrested on a street corner. He will be returned to New York tonight.

Peaches Out of Show, Hinted on Broadway

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—Broadway is asking itself if "Peaches" Heenan Browning has been "fired" from the cast of "The Squealer." Peaches and her ma say she's sick in bed with the flu.

Jack Linder, the play's producer, is quoted as saying she's been "asked to quit," before the show goes to Chicago.

Lifer Hopes Slain Man's Widow Will Free Him

La Crosse, Wis., Dec. 28 (AP)—Authorities are awaiting the arrival here of John G. Beier, 29, "lifer" at Waupun, Wis., State Prison, who hopes to prove his innocence in the slaying of Nick Biesen by "interviewing" the latter's widow.

Beier has been granted a five-day release from prison by Governor Zimmerman, to "interview" Mrs. Helen Biesen Bartovick in jail here. He says he hopes to induce here to "tell the truth" and to prove his innocence in the tragedy for which he has served eight years.

Biesen was found with his head blown off August 26, 1920. Mrs. Biesen "confessed" Beier was the slayer and later was sentenced to two years in prison on a statutory charge for her relations with Beier.

Today Beier charges he was kidnaped by Mrs. Biesen and held a prisoner in a closet in the Biesen home while she killed her husband.

Science Seeking Way Worlds Are Made

New York, Dec. 28 (AP)—A drama which might be entitled "The Web of Life, or Man and His Environment" was outlined today before members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Affiliated Societies.

The zoologists and geographers [illegible] divided the birds and beasts of the continents and islands and what they mean in the men who [illegible] some to dwell upon them. While the [illegible] of Dr. [illegible] was presented before the Zoological Society of America.

"Life is to independent [illegible] entity of all [illegible] Dr. K. Fr[illegible] chief of the University of Rostock [illegible] persistent in the [illegible] Dr. Merriam told the [illegible]

They are [illegible] another de[illegible] and are constantly [illegible] interchanged.

"Science's [illegible] is the fact that life is a [illegible] party seemed to [illegible] it a certain unity.

GIFT ISN'T SO OLD.

"You all know the web of life. Connect together the inorganic and the organic web and you have the unity of nature."

As one of the [illegible] examples, Dr. Fred[illegible] cited the [illegible] of the nitrogen [illegible] of the atmosphere by the nitrogen-fixing bacteria and delivered to the plants which without that would very soon be starved for nitrogen.

On the other hand, he continued, the nitrogen salts, washed out to sea by the rivers and carried through the rivers to the sea would transform the ocean into a strong salt solution, deadly for organisms, if the bacterial life did not restore the balance.

The coal seams of the earth's crust in the region of Central America and the Antilles over a period of years had a balance which was described by Prof. Charles Schuchert of Yale.

"What stands out most clearly," he said, "is that there was no Gulf of Mexico 100,000,000 years ago."

SUN BURSTS COMETS

Severe sunburn sometimes breaks up comets.

This sensitivity of comets to the sun's ultraviolet rays was reported by H. D. Babcock and E. O. Hulburt of the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington.

They found several historically famous cases of comets either breaking up or flaring up, which followed magnetic storms on earth, by just the period necessary for the sunlight which caused the earth storms to have traveled the additional distance to the comet.

Lessons in learning were drawn for educators in accounts of experiments with human guinea pigs. Children admitted to school before reaching the customary age.

ARE EXACTLY ALIKE

The experiment with the twins was conducted by Dr. Arnold Gesell of Yale, in collaboration with Dr. Helen Thompson, beginning when the twins were one month old and continuing for 17 months.

They were so nearly alike, physically and mentally, Dr. Gesell reported, that they received virtually the same ratings in 451 out of 500 separate comparative tests.

"Hormones" at three million dollars a pound were described by Dr. Oliver Kamm of Parke, Davis & Co.

Sure Way to Stop Coughing

This Prescription Relieves Almost Instantly

Coughing is usually due to causes which patent medicines and cough syrups do not reach. However, Thoxine, a famous doctor's prescription, relieves coughing with the very first swallow. It works on an entirely different theory, has a double action, relieves the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause.

Unlike most cough medicine Thoxine contains no unfavorable dope or other harmful drugs. Safe for the whole family. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief guaranteed or your money back. 15c, 60c, and $1.00. Sold by Epstein Drug Co., Cole Drug Co., Miller Drug Co., Conservatory Pharmacy, Walker-Rintels Drug Co., and all other good drug stores.

FIVE KILLED AND BURNED; BOY IS JAILED

Gastonia, N. C., Dec. 28 (AP)—J. [illegible] Vandeburg, a farmer, his wife and three of their children were [illegible] and their bodies burned each [illegible] in their home near Dallas. A [illegible]-year-old son and the couple's father, suspected of setting [illegible] to and set free to [illegible] in an effort to hide the crime. Police said they had been informed the son and father quarreled about [illegible] early after midnight and had become violent.

Santa Is Too Liberal at Michael's Palace

Bucharest, Rumania, Dec. 28—King Michael received so many toys for Christmas that his mother, Princess Helen, was obliged to give half of them away to poor children in the hospitals and orphanages.

The gift which gave the seven-year-old ruler the greatest delight was a huge model of Lindbergh's transatlantic airplane, Spirit of St. Louis. This was presented in behalf of the regents.

King Michael also received a large model elephant, two polar bears, many other playthings and games and an electric automobile large enough to accommodate him and his dog.

After Queen Mary lit the Christmas tree at Michael's palace, the king lit the presence of the royal family and members of the regency recited several Christmas verses in Rumanian and then sang a Christmas folk song, called "Ilu-linde."

INSTALL DEAN AS NEW HEAD OF MASONS

Herbert W. Dean of Cheshire was installed as grand master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Massachusetts at impressive ceremonies held in the Masonic Temple, Boston st., and were attended by more than a thousand members of the order.

Among the guests were: Most Wor. Robert S. Walker, grand master of Masons of Connecticut; Most Wor. W. T. Arnold, past grand master of Masons of Connecticut; Most Wor. Howard D. Cruise, past grand master of Masons of New Jersey, the following past grand masters of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts: Most Wor. Lyna H. Flanders, Most Wor. Melvin M. Johnson, Most Wor. Leon M. Abbott, Most Wor. Arthur D. Prince, Most Wor. Dudley H. Percival and Most Wor. Frank L. Simpson.

Also attending were: Most Ex. Withrop J. Cushing, Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Massachusetts; Most Ill. Olin D. Dickerman, Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters of Massachusetts; Rt. Em. Clarence E. Burleigh, grand commander of Knights Templars of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Henry Price medals were presented to Rt. Wor. John W. Withington, past senior, and Rt. Wor. Lelia S. Wilde, past junior grand warden.

A committee of past grand masters was named to escort Herbert W. Dean, the grand master-elect to his lodge room. Inducted into his high office he was handed an urn made by Paul Revere containing a lock of hair of George Washington revered in the hearts of all Americans. This relic was placed in charge of the new grand master, as it has been to his predecessors for many years, to be turned over to his successor in office.

Fourth Estate, the newspapermen's lodge, received a new honor in the selection of Rt. Wor. Charles C. Balcom as grand marshal. He has just completed his term as district deputy grand master of the 3d (Boston) Masonic district.

Sigma Lambda Pi to Convene in Hub

The annual convention of the Sigma Lambda Pi will be held Dec. 29 to Jan. 2 at the Hotel Bellevue. This is the first meeting of the society in Boston. Members of the various chapters throughout the United States are expected to attend.

The Boston University chapter whose house is located at 17 Manchester rd., Brookline, will be host.

Paul J. Goldstein of Taunton is chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. He is assisted by Samuel Rice, Roxbury; Oscar Goldstein, Roxbury; John Goober, Portland, Me.; Maurice Steinberg, Brookline, and Philip Ty, New Haven, Ct.

N. England Hospital Drive to Continue

With $140,133 already in the hands of Frank M. Wright, treasurer of the New England Hospital for Women and Children, and more than $15,000 promised, its first campaign in its appeal for $1,000,000 toward the new $400,000 children's building and nursery was reached.

Mrs. David K. Horton, president of the hospital, announced that the fund would remain open and contributions would continue to be received by Mr. Wright, who is vice president of the Second National Bank.

Six-Day Novel by a Famous Author

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

REBELLING against the constant care of "Cousin Agatha" and the routine life of exclusive European finishing schools, Genevieve Smith, a pretty 18-year-old heiress, flees Paris with 18 $100 bills, cheap clothing and a straw suitcase. Traveling steerage she sees a handsome young man with gray eyes. In New York she is aglow with the elation of her freedom. But an underworld taxi-driver leads her unsuspectingly into a white slave house, where she awakens from a drugged sleep a prisoner bereft of clothing. A beady-eyed creature entering the room greets with defeat when Genevieve traps him and succeeds with a glass dagger and strips of sheets in rendering him helpless. Escaping from the house in the man's clothing, she is pursued by the "Dude" and runs into the arms of the man with the gray eyes. A policeman appearing arrests both as underworld characters.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

As the patrol wagon rolled away pleading, "This man hasn't anything to do with it. You mustn't arrest him." And yet, somehow she was glad he was arrested with her, for now that she sat behind bars she felt some one safe—and this despite the fact that she was handcuffed and on the way to the police station.

"He don't seem to be objecting," said the policeman. "What's your name?"

She hesitated his question. "Why don't you explain you had nothing to do with it? Why don't you tell him you never saw me before?"

"Because I did. I recognized you the moment I really saw you, just after the pump. You were on the beat. Of course you don't remember me, but I saw you once or—"

"I remember you very well. You—you had your eyes shut." And she laughed. Two days laughed. The policeman said: "Hey, what do you think this is, a joy ride? I asked you your name."

"Smith—Genevieve Smith," she managed to say. But somehow, laughing, it unnerved her—made it seem as if she were afraid of not being safe—made speaking the truth seem to the man who could help. And for no reason at all, except that nothing else would come to her mind, she added, "Jane Smith."

"I don't know what I'm going to do with you, Jane Smith. I ought to run you in, but I don't know what to do, they've taken all my money and my clothes—"

"It'll be all right," he said. "Just take your time, and then tell us a story."

By now the policeman had believed as he was, for some one moved to Genevieve's voice and tears. "Look here, baby, if you're on the level, you're perfectly safe in a police station. But—say, if you're on the level, why did you give the name of Smith? Tell me that." The minion of the law was suspicious again. "Smith" he snorted.

"Listen, officer," said the young man. "There are people named Smith, you know."

"Yeah, especially when they get into scrapes, and don't want their real name to get in the papers, Smith!"

At the mention of papers, Genevieve straightened up, with a sudden shock. It is out in the open—if Cousin Agatha should see it—Cousin Agatha! Oh no, it would be too terrible. Why this scrape would almost kill poor old Cousin Agatha. And after all Cousin Agatha had done for her. The papers! She must think fast. She must contrive the police officer that her name was not Smith.

"It's not a crime is it, officer?" she began, "merely to give a name that isn't one's own?"

"I don't know, some days I do always find out. So you might as well come clean at the start."

Now Genevieve was frightened. She knew that if her name were known to Cousin Agatha, it was certain that the police or detective would be informed, and she would be taken back to Paris. Then she remembered that Cousin Agatha had always called her "Genevieve" and that Smith was her mother's maiden name.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN
A HONEST PAPER FOR HONEST PEOPLE WHO THINK
BOSTON, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1928

SECOND SECTION

PLOT TO KIDNAP MORROW IS FOILED

BAY STATE RUM BUYER SAFE

Decision of a Federal Court in Illinois this week convicted a bootlegger's customer as a party to the transportation of the contraband liquor, will not carry much weight in Massachusetts according to opinions expressed here today by attaches of the office of U. S. Attorney Fred H. Tarr.

It was pointed out by local federal officials that every U. S. district court exercises "local option" in the prosecution of prohibition violators and Congress did not intend that a precedent established in any single district should be followed in any other district.

Further, it was asserted, a recent conference of U. S. circuit judges with the Supreme Court of the United States resulted in an unanimous agreement to curtail the limits of the so-called conspiracy indictment process and to abolish the present practice of raising numerous counts to receive a finding of guilty on one or more of the offenses for conspiracy carries a maximum penalty of two years in jail. And other prosecutors said that conviction of liquor will not be obtained in the face of the fact that the purchaser of liquor will be prosecuted as well as the seller, while the purchaser or consumer will be amenable to the court only one time on any charge of which he is convicted for those offenses.

'SAFETY' IS FIRST ON THIN ICE

If thin ice causes the drowning of any youngster in Swampscott this winter it won't be the fault of the police department.

Inaugurating a safety campaign on New England's first real winter day, Walter P. Reeves today issued a general order instructing bands of officers at headquarters to begin their regular morning routine by visiting each of Swampscott's four ponds with axes and pocket rules.

They will chop holes, measure the thickness of the ice and post warnings if the ponds are not safe for skating. Less than four inches will be officially O. K'd. The policemen of the "testing squad" having made their rounds, will visit each of the Swampscott schools, posting "safe skating" or "No skating" bulletins in the corridors.

On days when the mercury registers eight degrees or more than the police will take the treading tools.

"Because four inches are safe enough for a man on the ice," Chief Reeves said. "We will not send them here if it takes the whole police force."

P. O. ROBBERS ESCAPE IN GUN BATTLE

Portland Ct., Dec. 28 (Robbers armed with rifles battled their way out of the postoffice and adjacent store of the town of Higganum today, ran through a tunnel of hay lots to a waiting automobile and escaped in the direction of Hartford. Police believe they may be headed for Massachusetts.

A hastily organized posse headed by Postmaster William Gildersleeve and his cook, John J. Mitrie, emptied shotguns and revolvers at the fleeing car, but failed to halt it.

SHOTGUN FUSILLADE

The attempt to loot the postoffice building was discovered by Mrs. Mitchell, who came across the safe, which was in the rear of the postmaster's store, in which the mail is sorted. Discovering that the safe had been blown open and the mail ripped to shreds, Mrs. Mitchell hurried to the home of Gildersleeve, who was awakened by the shooting.

The posse, equipped with shotguns and rifles, gathered from the postoffice window and two men came out running and dashed toward a parked automobile.

CLUES IN FINGERPRINTS

Gildersleeve and Mitrie, reinforced by neighbors, fired repeatedly at the machine as it sped away. Several bullets apparently lodged in the auto's body, but it did not stop.

The postoffice safe was guarded by a heavy steel door, which was pried off its hinges. Some time was required to open the inner safe, which contained the mail. No one was in the building at the time.

Clues in fingerprints found on the safe and in the postoffice will be sent to Washington for examination.

BIG PROGRAMS PLANNED FOR NEW YEAR'S

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

I SEE by the radio programs that New Years is coming. That sounds as if it ought to be "New Years ARE coming," but whatever the grammar, the program directors are on the job. Little chance for the first of January to slip by without due tribute from the Tenth Muse. The first of the symphonists to give New Year color to their radio program are the Interwoven Entertainers, a program company organized especially for the approach of New Year's Day" takes the air at 8 o'clock tonight on that half of the NBC System which includes WBZ. What could be more appropriate and full of New Year meaning than Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song," Pop Goes the Weasel," Valencia," and Tea For Two"? Tucked in the middle of it will probably be a little [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible].

ONE OF THE BEST tunes with which to [illegible] old [illegible] year was radio in the "Sambre et Meuse" wartime marche to be played in the program in Paris" broadcast over WEEI and station WNAC of the NBC. Other bright French bits are "Mon Homme," or "My Man," and Les Heures Bleues des Deux Orphelines"—"Dreams Are Only Bubbles." This program comes at 9 o'clock.

PRIZE TUNES

THE [illegible] Talking Machine Co. announced a $5 00 contest prize limerick for the best American musical composition for dancing, jazz or popular orchestra.

The two winning numbers will be played in a special network broadcast from WBAP and including WEEI at 9 o'clock tonight. The awards will be made by a board of judges comprising S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel, Edwin Franko Goldman, Hugo Wolfe Kahn, George Olsen, Hugo Reisenfeld, Fred Waring, and Pietro Floridia.

HOUSE PARTY

AGAIN AT 10:30 WEEI would demand your attention to a program graced by the benign presence and felicitous words of M. Ashworth, president of the National Radio Advertising Co. Varied musical numbers will be played by the N. R. C. ensemble, the Roxy Symphonic Choir, the Roxy Boys, Jessica Dragonette, Laughn de Leath, Henriette Caroline Andrews, the Revelers Quartet, George Olsen, Morton Downey, Phil Cook, Gypsy Riley and Harold Lambert.

COMPOSER OF CARMEN

TONIGHT'S OPERA broadcast by the Columbia System is "Les Pecheurs de Perles." The work will be the air at 8 o'clock and will run for an hour. It is not quite so familiar to the American public as "Carmen" and "Lakme," but enjoyed by the same type of music lover, by the by, first produced and afterwards the country of its birth, France, on [illegible] 1863. The composer follows the old tradition of giving the [illegible] morsels to [illegible] prima donna.

ENTOMOLOGICAL BALLADS

NOT THAT I'm particularly interested, but it may seem so to some, but I'm going to mention that several times during the [illegible] Dean Nevin's hour on WNAC at 10 o'clock tonight he'll give a group of original songs. "Down Among the Dear Little Buttercups" of yesterday will be [illegible] tonight as a [illegible] Nevin's [illegible] Calling Poor Butterfly," in [illegible] Nevin's composition [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

RISKO IS CHOICE OVER SCHAAF TONIGHT

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
SPEED, ACCURACY, INTEREST — NEWS THE DAY IT HAPPENS

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN — FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1928

MR. BOSTON By Jack Conway

PAUL BOWSER, wrestling promoter, was in a rather gleeful mood when Mr. Boston stepped in on him at his downtown office today.

"I bet you've got something, Mr. Boston," opened Paul, "when you declared that Ruth Dempsey and Sonnenberg are the three greatest box office attractions in sport today.

"My office force has been working overtime since I signed Sonnenberg to meet Stanislaus Zbyszko for the world's heavyweight title at the Boston Garden next Friday night. The returns have already passed the $30,000 mark. It looks as though the Garden will have to be enlarged for the large crowd that will be here tonight and the Stanislaus-Joe bout.

"I have often said it was only necessary to expose the foreign grunts of wrestling to the American sports public and they would be accepted. The sensational success of Sonnenberg has changed all that. He has put a punch into the wrestling game such as Dempsey furnished to boxing and I think he has."

I have received a great many letters come along down during the years, but I never received one which had as much kick-power as Sonnenberg. He has put all the thrills and color back into wrestling. He has mastered things about wrestling inside of a year which it takes the average grappler three and four years to become proficient in."

AS Mr. Boston later wandered along Washington st., he bumped into Phil Schlosberg, old-time navy champion, who is managing Ernie Schaaf.

"What is Schaaf going to do in his tussle with Risko tonight?" asked Mr. Boston.

"I feel that the boy will win," answered Phil easily. "I have brought him along carefully during the past three years. He has gained the necessary experience and is ready to shoot for the big money.

"I think Risko has the style that Schaaf can beat. Johnny is a rushing, tearing, wide-open fighter, and Schaaf won't have any trouble licking him. There are few heavyweights who can thump as hard as the former sailor."

"What are your plans if Schaaf wins?" queried Mr. Boston.

"They can then bring on any of the so-called headliners in the heavyweight division," chirped Schlosberg. "I think I would get quite a kick out of managing a world's champion."

MR. BOSTON has been tipped that Eddie Mack has signed Con O'Keefe [illegible] Mack at the Pastime [illegible] Mack [illegible] Mack [illegible] O'Keefe [illegible] Mack [illegible] O'Keefe [illegible] Mack [illegible]

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

There is hardly a player on the Bruin squad who is not justified in believing that he can put up a better article of hockey than he showed against the Chicago Blackhawks.

The trouble with the Bruins is that they have been sent into action with a handicap of one defeat and one tie. They are called to the ice for their first game of the season and find themselves confronted by a team which has already played six games.

One of the reasons for the scarcity of goals in hockey is that managers are trying to play the game from the bench. In the old days players went out and played hockey, and the only duties placed upon the managers were the substituting of players.

Today managers feel that they must assume an air of great importance, drape themselves over the players' box, hand out officials for every little mistake and lay stress on the errors of their players.

Every player has his own style and any manager who is [illegible] enough to attempt to make [illegible] cast [illegible] the future stands an excellent chance of ruining his team.

To insure success a manager must first of all have the respect and undivided support of his players. And the successful manager is the one who gives his players a free rein on the ice and devotes his attention to keeping harmony on his club.

Can.-Am. League Leaders Face Tigers at Arena

PHILS GOOD SCORING SEXTET

Mush Roberts of Somerville With Sleepy City Team; Ex-Bruins Strengthen Arrows

Philadelphia Arrows, pacesetters in the Canadian-American Hockey League will meet Boston Tigers in the third game of their league series, in Boston Arena tomorrow night.

Last time last week the Quakers took the two games which have been played to date.

The Arrows have a scoring punch which has been bothering the Bruins all along since the first week of the season with Archie Briden, former Bruin, and Chalkey White, former Springfield Indian, the premier wings, setting a hot scoring pace.

Lloyd Andrews, Arrow center, is the key man of the team and has made good use many of the goals by his crack work on the middle lane.

In the Philadelphia valley over New Jersey Wednesday he played to White for two of the three goals.

The other White scored himself, thereby setting up a season's record for number of goals scored in one game.

The Arrow roster includes many players who are well known in hockey, including Mush Roberts of Somerville, one of the few Jewish players in organized hockey. Frank Peters, who used to play with the Montreal Wanderers and Maroons, Charley Gardiner, Arthur Brown and Manager Norman Stewart were former Bruins.

Tigers will have their strength for the first time since the opening game of the season, with Whitey Field and Reg Mackey available.

HUSKY COURT TEAM RESUMES PRACTICE

Basketball practice was resumed at Northeastern following the holiday recess, the varsity squad getting down to fundamentals.

In two games Huskies have games next week, the fourth meeting with Clark here in the return game Saturday and two bouts on Monday, Tech Model at home on Thursday.

Coach Lord will give Howe Hall one an opportunity to win back the center position on the strength of his fine showing against Harvard in Friday's lost contest.

"Tuesday, the setback was our second in the opening games of the season," Lord said. "Which is a record to send Northeastern top notch in the Hub basketball circuit."

Art Lord, veteran center, has been out with a bad knee, but is fresh and fit and last night for the first time.

Herb Tiffin, forward, who injured in the Harvard game, benefited by the layoff this week and is showing very well with his service. He was kept in condition during the recess by playing for the Northeastern Club against the Syracuse Country Club.

Capt. Jim Downey also played his first game for Northeastern this season, getting in the last few minutes.

Sharkey Offered Bout With Tom Loughran

Chicago, Dec. 28 (AP)—Paddy Harmon, boxing commissioner of Illinois, announced today that he would ask Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, to meet Tom Loughran, Philadelphia veteran, in a match at the Chicago Stadium.

If Sharkey accepts, the match probably will decide the new champion.

Minton Back for Training Sessions

New York, Dec. 28—Roger Minton, agent for the George Odlum stable, has reported back for duty with the George Odlum fleet of Meadow Field, H. L. Gerry and Arden Farm horses wintering here.

Minton had been absent for several days, confined to his home by an attack of the flu.

Dazzy Vance Leads N. L. Pitchers

Dazzy Vance once again is the leader of the National League pitchers in the averages, according to Ed Bang.

Larry Benton of the Giants has the best win and loss record, but Vance was more effective as regards earned runs.

ZEUS WILCZEWSKI

Zeus, captain of the B. C. track team, is one of the best all-round track and field men in this part of the country. He is training for the indoor season and will make a good bid for decathlon honors at the Penn relays in the spring. He can do almost anything well.

SHOULD IMPROVE

The splint will be removed from his thumb today and it will be interesting to note the powers of his game from now on. Lombard can hardly be expected to score more often but his stick handling should improve.

The Pioneers will continue to follow their present practice schedule, which calls for three sessions a week, until next Monday, when daily drills will be held again.

Coach Way and Vaughn is well pleased with the work of Ben Carter at center. Carter has been moved up from second string left wing to regular center and he is working well at the face-off play.

Dick Wing, former Yale hockey and present Andover coach, works out with the Pioneers and especially with Carter. The forts are looking fruit as with Carter at center R. L. has a wonderful forward line.

Joe Dundee May Box Fields in February

New York, Dec. 28—Joe Dundee is low down in the rankings, according to boxing commission point rating and if he is penny pinched in his off fights the Johnny Thompson of Jack Fields is announced it will not take him long.

Dundee and Thompson were matched for a Garden show to go on January 11 but when word of the match leaked out Dundee's manager refused to sign the contract and had attached his name to a written agreement that he would not sign the contract unless Dundee was given the assurance that no bout seeks to [illegible]

Boston A. A. will meet Pleon Yacht Club at the Arena at 8.15 tonight in the first game played by a Unicorn sextet in three years. The game will comprise half of a double-header.

In the other and a Bay State game Dorchester Hockey Club will meet Dorchester Heights C. C.

B. A. A. IN SHAPE

B. A. A. has been practicing 2 a month and the result is a team giving well at practice and wonders with corner play and on rare occasions have been released by at the Arena.

Manager Jack Hilliard is a solid defense with Hilliard, Marshall at the points and Jack Fitzgerald in goal. It is somewhat uncertain about his forward lineup.

Dick Vaughan, former Yale captain, is a fixture at center ice, and it is likely that Capt. Hilliard and Dick Nelson will be on the wings in the opening game.

Other good players at the Hunnewell Club this year are Bill Hardy, Jess Fitzgerald, Bill Carr and Wilbur Pierce is the first reserve defenseman.

EX-HARVARD MEN PLAY

Pleon will start Courtland Gross and Nat Hamlen, former Harvard regulars on the wings with Dick Currier of Boston as goalie.

Dwight Sherer of W. Newton and Arthur Nazro of Kenilworth, Ill., are defense pairing. Captain Sherer is an old hand at the game.

Among the Pleon regulars are Snow Stone of Newton, Donald Whittemore of Middletown, Conn., Walker of Amherst, Lawton Harmon of St. Marks and Jim Hamilton of Harvard.

SCHOOL HOCKEY AT ARENA

By DICK McSWEENEY.

The schoolboy hockey teams to be trashed by the Metco victories will resume activities at the Arena tomorrow morning.

The first game will bring together Mechanic Arts and B. C. High. Both teams possess a strong defense and will be heavy on the defense, a very common attribute of a defense.

Peterson is the outstanding defender for the Arts team. Mullen and Boehner hold down the defense berths opposite the former commerce men against East Boston last week but will have to step fast to defeat Jimmy Flynn tomorrow.

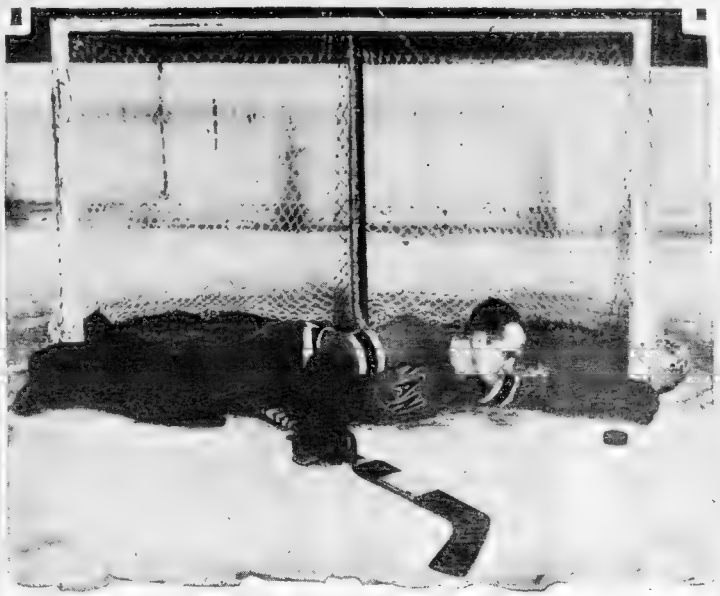
Gallagher and Lawson are the right and left Commerce forwards. Jamaica Plain and Roxbury Memorial will battle in the next game. Both teams will be out to win and the game ought to be a thriller. Commerce, Dorchester outfit is a smooth working machine.

Dorchester and Hyde Park will battle in the third game. Dorchester has won its first two starts by the scores of Hyde Park and Dorchester Hyde Park should give Dorchester a good run for their money. The Red and Blue from Hyde Park should give Dorchester plenty of trouble.

Trade looks up with Everett for the fourth game. Trade is coming a long way and will be a fine game. Everett is a strong team and should have an upset. Coach Powers and Hilton always have a good game for the Blue and Red. Therefore is Brighton a heavy favorite.

English high school teams go against Charlestown in the final contest of the day. Lynch, Campana and Donnellan will help Latin along.

IT'S A GOOD SHOT THAT GETS BY THIS GOALIE



JOHN ROSS ROACH N. Y. RANGERS

Roach, long regarded as one of hockey's greatest goalies, was secured from Toronto by the New York Rangers just before the start of the season. He has played a wonderful game for the world champions to date. He is shown here making a save with his glove. (International Newsreel photo.)

MOOSEHEART TO PLAY BROCKTON

Boston, Dec. 28—Negotiations have been completed between Brockton and Mooseheart for a football game at Brockton on Oct. 13.

Mooseheart has a record that is the envy of a Loyal Order of Moose and has rendered one of the strongest at both athletic strength in the State of Illinois.

This year the Mooseheart team, in ten games, played 72 halves and won 12 and lost six. In the nine games they scored a total number of points rolled up by Mooseheart in this time was 280, and in 1926 the second eleven was undefeated in football.

Mooseheart is coached by William Reed, and is located about 10 miles west of Chicago.

The complete Brockton high school team will be present on the date of the game and is the same one that was made in the '28 season.

B. U. Track Team Needs Field Event Men

Boston University's prospects for a winning track team this winter will depend largely upon the development of the candidates for the field events.

B. U. is weak in both the high jump and shotput, and Coach Freddie Burns uncovers some likely point scorers for the new men the track team will lack the necessary ba[illegible] a winner.

The Graduation of John Carroll leaves the Pioneers without a single veteran in the high jump. Carroll took care of this event for [illegible] years and in that time won many [illegible] points for B. U. He jumped six feet consistently and his [illegible] where the other left off.

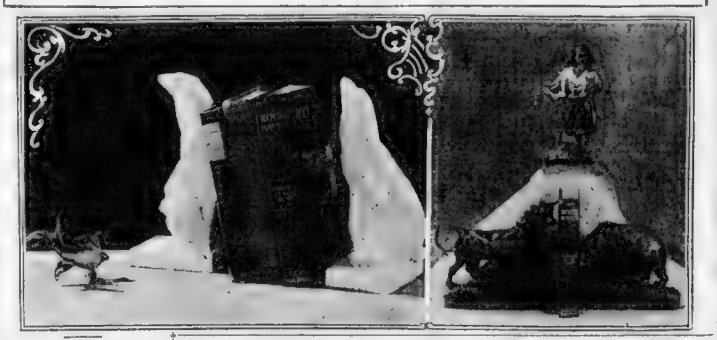
Book-Ends Have Most Modern Tendency



YOU will declare that book-ends are not new. They most certainly are when they are simply alive with the modern spirit. And everyone possessing old-fashioned book-ends would like to relieve himself or herself of those prosy pieces of leather or metal given a bronze finish.

These polar bears are good examples of modern line treatment sculptured in crackle ware. But if they do not make an appeal to your troubled mind there are many other charming figures—dogs, peacocks, horses, elephants and raging lions.

The bull and the bear of Wall Street is a clever choice for the man who loves to play the market.

It is so easily possible to please every type of person and every age. These are inexpensive little book-ends, copper plated in rich tones—galleons, cathedral bells, Indians and the like.

Nor have children been forgotten. The child with a room of its own will like book-ends, too, in models appealing to the youthful imagination.

Decorative pieces are very skilfully done, such as funny little glass fish to act as attractive menu or place card holders. These come in all colors and are new.

The large pirate illustrated is one the man will enjoy, for it is extremely colorful and furnishes a nice masculine atmosphere wherever it is placed for decoration.

Have you thought of the refreshment bottle? Groups of three grotesque figures are reminiscent of the three musketeers done in pottery. When lifted they pour forth both music and liquids. A fascinating Scotch bottle with a suitable plaided laddie atop it also has a musical attachment.

Single bottles in china or porcelain represent quaint characters subtly touched with color to accent the white.

A Wife's Meditations

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT a man thinks he likes in women and what he REALLY likes are two things as distinct and as far removed from each other as the hotel breakfast menu and the hotel dinner card.

Theoretically, of course, he likes the wholesome, simple, practical things on the breakfast menu. But it's the tempting dishes with plenty of spice, sauce and fancy dressing on the dinner card that appear to rouse his enthusiasm.

Any man will tell you that he likes an intelligent, sensible, level-headed girl who can think for herself. Oh, yes he does—so long as she agrees with all his opinions, always asks his advice and permits him to do all her thinking for her.

Every man will assure you that he hates a made-up face—he loathes lipsticks and mascara. But just try to flag him with a "Powder puff, and a shiny nose, and see how far you will get.

Any man will give you to understand that you can be perfectly frank with HIM. That he likes a straightforward, candid woman, who never flatters him and is not afraid to show her real thoughts and emotions.

Certainly he does! As long as her frankness consists in telling him how wonderful he is. And her candor consists in never telling him her middle name, never emoting over him, never showing a spark of jealousy and never letting him see the wheels go 'round in her head or her heart.

Every man will assure you that he hates fussy clothes, loathes perfumes and abhors the idea of being seen with a conspicuously dressed woman.

Yet it is not always disapproval that makes him turn around to stare at the dizzy blonde in the scarlet ... or the dashing red-haired woman in the backless evening gown and nothing gives him more of a thrill than to dance around with a tramp-in in the "last word" from Paris, who little is he knows after he's an ex-circus parade.

Let a man tell you that a spot a man cannot at night, and that the light of candles, and the dance [illegible] ... Give me a [illegible] ... home-hearted, old-man woman!

Yet, let's see what happens to be a heart-collector himself. Almost any man would rather be the last on a popular girl's telephone list than the first in a lonely girl's heart. In short, theoretically, a man likes the kind of woman he ought to like and wants to like—but when it comes to a matter of selection, somehow he nearly always picks "the other kind."

The RISE OF LOTTA CRABTREE

Remarkable Story of Actress Boston Knew Well

By CONSTANCE ROURKE

CHAPTER 22

THE Crabtrees perhaps paused at Mormon Bar, sunk in dry dust across a riverbed. They may have crowded to the shallow cup where had Mariposa, and played at Huertos, the wildest of all camps in the southern mines, which possessed a hard and bitter legend of lawlessness and of organic turbulence. Everywhere were the same old gold-paper houses, the same tin-roofed awnings, the same dance halls. Sometimes a theater would go up in flames and smoke like the others. Whole villages were set on fire at night in a wind of fire.

So they traveled, perhaps over a range of mountain and down into Rich Bar. Just clustering tents, a ramshackle assembly of cabins, though Priest's Mercantile, Wheat Lange & Co., and Hotel Delmonico were already established. Then they played through the Calaveras camps on the way out, it would have been toward autumn when they reached these great descents after the long loop southward.

Through all that journey, as they traveled onward, Mrs. Crabtree must have been stirred by a profound discouragement.

Was there nothing a mad but traveling in the mines? Over and again Lotta had come to the surface of the larger theatrical scene only to be thrust relentlessly aside. Perhaps it was part of this unaccountable profession to bob to the surface and disappear, just as a cork bobs out for a time in the glare of kerosene lamps and dropped again into the blackness of night.

Hard, joyless, sensual people ran for nothing or decision, a little cent of time to pay for one's delusion. But Lotta persisted not to be overthrown. But we learned of with Lotta to what a person, and upon what engagements.

Gathering what returns they could, Edward Crabtree reached Marysville, they worked their way back along main trails.

Perhaps they spent Christmas in camp, as many players did. Lola was an uproarious and gone one time, the miners giving lavishly of gold, the players of their storied repertoire.

One Can Imagine Lotta at a High Pitch of Excitement

One can fancy Lotta, at a high pitch of excitement—more child than player—dancing out, as a small black Sambo, or again in her white frok to sing with her red curls flying. Then out they traveled once more, over the plain to Stockton, and returned to San Francisco at last by river-boat on the San Joaquin, mingling with miners down for a winter's holiday. A mere had been turned in by Hollywood characters after the Argonauts arrived here early in the '50's. The drama had almost vanished, drawing into obscurity many of the major figures that had given brilliance. Variety—not yet called vaudeville—had come into an overwhelming popularity.

At the end of the fifties a whole galaxy of small halls sprang into existence in San Francisco. The Bella Union had now abandoned gambling for variety. Rowena Granice had gathered a minstrel and variety troupe at the small Union Theater. Thomas Maguire had dabbled at intervals in opera, variety troupes had occupied his boards almost steadily for several years; and he was now host the Eureka Minstrel Hall.

Encountures were still desperate in California, chances in luck overwhelming, suicides so common that few remarked them, life both simply lived and comic. Fantasy, wild rhythm, a smacking wit, above all change, had grown increasingly welcome.

Lotta could be found in the crowded seats, beside strolling players. Mrs. Crabtree had reason to remember the [illegible] Bella Union. MYSTERY STORY
The Strange Case of Sir Bottisford Beale

The Inspector noticed what seemed to be four sticks of dynamite in the stranger's pocket.

A lapse of time is here necessary. Just how long it will be is a matter of conjecture—as is the whole case, for that matter. Suffice it to say that authorities disagree.

But there can be no difference of opinion on one point—and that is this. Or this is that, rather. Old Bottisford Beale kicked and fought when the Scotland Yard operatives tried to wrench from his grasp the deadly all-day sucker.

There he was, on the floor of his club—pop-eyed, so to speak, and actually curling up. Only, the Inspector, pleaded in a kindly manner—at first. Then he lost his patience and gave Sir Bottisford a brisk kick. But the old fool kept the all-day sucker in his mouth until—

CHILDREN AND GIFTS

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

WE all realize that there are many—too many—children who need clothing, food and toys which never seem to come their way, but today let us consider the other type of child, the type which seems to be even more prevailing than the needy one. This is the child of average American parents whose big problem, even though he himself does not sense it, lies in having too much.

Presents to children, while nearly always given in the spirit of love and with a desire to witness the delight of the tiny recipient, often defeat their own purpose.

A gift to a child should mean something to him besides instilling a sense of glory in possession. Good behavior should not be rewarded by material possessions. Your child should be taught to do what is right, because only in obeying certain unselfish principles and social laws can any of us have any liberty or happiness. You would not think of approaching the manager of a dry goods store and saying to him:

"Mr. Jones I have been in your store for one hour. I have stolen nothing. I have been courteous to those who served me. I have not pushed over any of your glassware and broken it, therefore I expect you to give me a pound of candy or the latest mystery story book from your book department."

You would never think of making such a foolish demand, and if you did—what then? If Mr. Jones said to you, "But you do get good treatment in my store and I appreciate it, I will give you the candy or the book" just figure ahead as to what your reaction would be. Why, if all the managers of other stores refused to treat you in the same manner you would feel that you could act as crudely or piggishly as your mood dictated while visiting their establishments, wouldn't you?

By the same token, if we pay a child in material gifts for good behavior we pay him for doing what he should do anyway. How is he going to behave for someone who refuses to pay his price? Rewarding a child for some act which we desire is an easy and cowardly way to gain our own ends, but it is so unfair to him. Outsiders are going to expect decent, thoughtful behavior as a matter of course and they have no intention of paying for it.

Childhood should abound in unexpected little gifts—happy surprises, simple, delightful things which are such fun to have and use. But these gifts, to be truly enjoyed and truly valuable to a child, should come singly. Let him get acquainted with one thing at a time. With the surplus of Christmas and birthday gifts, I should fill a Rainy Day box. Then when lowering sleet and cold, wet days keep the youngster imprisoned, let him choose one gift from this box and thoroughly enjoy it. They are all wrapped separately, of course, so that on each occasion for selection there will be a great surprise. This treasure box will help you amuse a child who is confined to his bed for a few days, too, or from it your child may select a gift to be taken to some other child who must stay indoors temporarily.

And I hope (while considering presents) that you do not bring your youngster a present every time you return from town. Let him look forward with happiness to your return because he wants to see you, not what you may have wrapped up in a bundle. If you see a toy which you feel that he must have, purchase it at once and make it a reward for staying at home happily while you take a shopping trip. If you leave him in competent hands, you have every right to a little excursion, so don't pretend to buy that night with a present.

BAER FACTS

by Arthur "Bugs" Baer

THE New Year resolution from Washington is peace with cruisers.

Every time we build one of those big battle-barges we are going to see a treaty.

Japan, England, France, Germany and other gentle belligerents will do the same thing.

A naval engagement in 1967 will read something like this:

The elimination tournament opened at dawn with both sides still hopeful that their diplomats could hold off peace until trouble started.

We adopted a wedge-shaped formation with daisy chains stretching between the boats.

At 8 a. m. the Dove sighted the Good Will and broke loose with a broadside of confetti.

The Sweet Breeze, commanded by a committee of pacifists, put on a beautiful radio program for the benefit of the—visitors—we almost said "enemy."

The Yellow Canary, pride of the fleet, had some trouble in the forward turret. While the sailors were having a candy-pulling contest the hook broke.

At noon Admiral Mark Time signaled, "The daisy chain is broken. What shall we do?"

During a terrific bombardment of paper flowers the outdoor aerial on the World was carried away.

The Morning Glory came in contact with the visitors and grappled with them. A pleasant time was had by all.

Action was stopped at 3 p. m. when a landing party discovered we were fighting under the wrong treaty.

The war was postponed until a better understanding could be cemented between the two nations.

After arriving in dry-dock Admiral Wimple, who was on the bridge during the entire contest, said, "My bridge game was wonderful."

The peace conference will take place at The Hague, as usual, with the customary skirmishes at Lausanne, Ghent, Washington and Geneva.

Versailles was the first choice. But it was discovered that all the looking glasses in the Hall of Mirrors had been busted during the famous peace conference of 1918.

FAMOUS LOVERS

By COZETTE DOUGLASS

A MISTRESS who was beloved by the people; whose sole thought was the love of the king for whom she had forsaken her husband and father; who never in the slightest way interfered in affairs of state—seems to be almost too much to ask of human belief. Especially in the history of ambition and intrigue which seemed to be the motivating influence of most of the famous women whose romances have so enthralled all of us. But the fact remains that Gabrielle d'Estees was such a woman.

Henry the Fourth, or "Henry the Great" as he was known, was without question one of the most popular figures in French history. Henry's reign is notable for the reforms which he effected in his beloved country. His first act on being raised to the throne was to restore peace and prosperity to the country. Probably it was while on one of his surveys that he met Gabrielle. She was the daughter of Antoine d'Estrees, Marquis of Coeuvres, and it was in November, 1590, when Henry stopped at her father's castle, that he first met Gabrielle.

Whether it was love at first sight, I don't know, but the fact is proved that Henry became deeply enamored of the lovely Gabrielle, and she with him. Her father, seeing this and wanting to save his daughter from such an affair, hastily made arrangements for her marriage to Nicholas d'Amerval, Seigneur de Liancourt. Of course, being of noble birth, the permission of the king had to be obtained before the marriage could take place. However, Gabrielle married d'Amerval, and we are told that the union was a most unhappy one. Probably because of her love for the king, she could not bear the thought of separation, for her affection for Henry was deep and sincere.

In 1593, she inevitable came to pass, and Gabrielle went to the palace as the king's mistress. Margaret of Valois was the queen at this time, and, history tells us, a woman unworthy to bear the title. It was because of quarrels with her that Henry undertook the "war of lovers."

Gabrielle's love and quiet influence was such a relief from the stormy scenes between himself and his queen that Henry can hardly be blamed for such a step. In those times, it was not considered amiss for the king to do absolutely as he pleased regarding his affairs of the heart. Gabrielle was ever the king's confidante; he listened eagerly and willingly to her advice, which he sought on all occasions.

That the king's love for Gabrielle was as deep as her own for him is evidenced by the fact that he fully intended marrying her in the event that his suit for the nullification of his marriage to Margaret was approved by the Holy See. However, before the divorce was granted, Gabrielle died. Naturally, poison was suspected, some historians saying it was administered to Gabrielle in an orange. This, however, is not thoroughly substantiated, as other and more authentic sources state that she died from natural causes.

Henry had created her a peeress of the realm, bestowing on her the titles of Marchioness of Monceaux and Duchess of Beaufort. Her children were legitimatized and recognized by the king.

The supreme evidence of the affection in which Gabrielle was held by the people was given on her death. She was sincerely mourned and universally lamented.

Here was one royal romance in which Love was absolutely the governing factor, and in which ambition had no part. Nor did intrigue ever rear a Medusa head to spoil its beauty and loveliness.

LEADERS ARE OPTIMISTIC ABOUT TRADE

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Consensus of opinion of leaders in fields of finance and industry shows them to be very optimistic about the trade outlook for 1929. A year ago same many doubtful, though lower usually well-informed insisted 1928 would bring a large increase of prosperity for our big industries.

Matthew C. Brush, Boston Elevated official and former head of the road, now president of American Locomotive Corp., predicts increased prosperity for 1929. And he says: "While there are a great many listed securities which possibly are selling higher than the merits of the respective institutions justify, nevertheless I believe that a careful selection of the best common stocks, and their purchase at this time will result beneficially over the next year to the buyer."

Ed. S. Harkness Matthew C. Brush

Edward S. Harkness, multi-millionaire philanthropist who's annual less than formerly, has been previously mentioned in this column as the chief of many gifts to Wellesley and Yale. Now it appears he is the one who gave the mysterious $3,000,000 to Harvard, announced by President Lowell last month. This adds to the mighty flood of our millions which have benefited New England during the past few years, a notable proportion coming from Edgar B. Davis of Luling, Texas, former Brocktonian.

New England railroad leaders are amused by the claim of Walter L. Fisher, former secretary of the Interior, now special counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission, as reported in Washington, that if a just valuation were given the rails, as the carriers see it, their valuation would be raised from 23 to above 30 billions. Mr. Fisher is reopposed to anything except what would be sufficient, if this board came, to give the roads the legal "fair return" to which they are previously pointed out via this column the railroads do not even now get the "legal return" supposed to be theirs under the Transportation Act.

"Why, then," they ask, "should it be expected an attempt would be made to give them the full 'legal' return even if the valuations were boosted?"

Auguste Richard has resigned as president and treasurer of Ipswich Mills, effective Jan. 12. Mr. Richard leaves Ipswich to become vice-president of Spool Cotton Co., of New York city, the joint selling agency of Clark Thread Co. and J. & P. Coats, Inc. W. W. Lufkin, Jr., assistant treasurer, in charge of operations at Gloucester, has been elected a vice-president.

President Williams of Marmon Motor Car Co. states that funds to be derived from new issue of 200,000 shares of stock will be used in an expansion program and manufacture of a new eight-cylinder car which will have a list price of less than $2000.

Millionaires have increased from 7000 in 1924 to between 20,000 and 25,000 in 1928, Carl Snyder of Federal Reserve Bank of New York declared. He says possibly half of these have been created by inflated debasement in value of currency which has taken place since beginning of war. A considerable part, also, must be due, he explains, to enormous rise in value of securities since war and to colossal manipulation in security values. Incomparably the greatest gamble the world has ever known."

Vesey Heads New $125,000,000 Chain

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 27 (AP)—Consolidation of the American Securities Corporation of Omaha with the Continental Credit Company of Baltimore, Md., operators of a chain of international banking establishments, was announced today.

The combined credit of the two institutions, which will have their headquarters in Omaha, exceeds $32,500,000 with assets of more than $125,000,000. The companies will merge on Jan. 2, 1929, according to agreement said, C. E. Vesey, named as president of the corporation, said the business would be increased and additional branches would be established in foreign countries.

Stockholders Get New Marmon Issue

Stockholders of Marmon Motor Car Company, Indianapolis, have approved increasing common stock to 400,000 no par shares from 200,000. Directors are offering shareholders of record Jan. 7 rights to subscribe to 60,000 additional shares at $35 in ratio of 3-10 share for every share held.

ALLIANCE Realty Co. declared extra dividend of 50 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents, payable January 21.

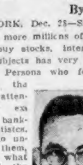
Why Bank Deposits Exceed Our Total Stock of Money

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—Since so many more millions of people began to buy stocks, interest in financial subjects has very greatly increased. Persons who formerly paid not the slightest attention, for example, to banking matters, are now try to understand them. Naturally, some of the figures stand for, so many puzzle them.



B. C. Forbes

As brokers' loans have figured so prominently in discussions of the Stock Market, so many readers of newspapers, noting the phenomenal expansion in them and then reading about how much currency there is in the whole country, cannot grasp where so much "money" comes from to keep the speculation going.

When they read that bank deposits in the whole country are very much larger than the nation's total currency, the uninformed jump to the conclusion that something wrong with the figures. How could the banks be carrying more deposits than there is money in the land?

Perhaps a little enlightenment will be interesting and timely.

Here is an actual letter received by the writer of this column:

"If the entire issue of currency by the Federal Reserve Banks is $1,700,000,000, how can they loan on stock margins in New York $5,000,000,000?

"Also, if the gross stock of money in the United States is less than $4,000,000,000, why do banks publish $70,000,000,000 deposits?"

I submitted these questions to a friend connected with the Federal Reserve system, and asked him for brief answers which would be understood by the lay mind. He has kindly furnished this reply:

"The writer of the inquiry misunderstands the relationship of currency, bank deposits and bank credit.

"In the first place, no bank carries a dollar of currency for every dollar of deposits. If that were the case, there would be no such thing as bank credit; banks would be merely safekeeping institutions; they could make no loans, would have no earnings, could pay no interest on deposits, and, in fact, would have to charge customers for the custody of their deposits.

"Banks have only enough cash to meet possible withdrawals i. any day. Past experience has shown that the daily demand for currency can be met by keeping on hand about 10 per currency for every $100 of deposits. To meet any unusual demand for currency the banks have the Federal Reserve System to fall back upon, which keeps hundreds of millions of dollars of currency as a reserve to meet any unusual demand.

"Coming now to the specific points raised in the inquiry, there is no relationship whatever between the $1,700,000,000 of Federal Reserve notes and the $5,000,000,000 of brokers' loans.

"The Federal Reserve notes are simply a part of the currency of this country used as the money or in hand-to-hand circulation.

"The loans to brokers to finance the carrying of stock on margin and other security transactions are not made by the reserve banks, but are supplied to the banks by private bank have placed for their own account, for correspondent banks, or for others. A huge volume of checks is drawn against the deposits created by these loans, but no currency is involved.

"In the United States checks drawn against deposits serve the same purposes as currency, and for the greater part currency has a very large proportion of all business transactions in this country.

"The total stock of money in this country is over $8,000,000,000, which between four billions and five billions is in actual circulation; a small amount constitutes a reserve for deposits of Federal Reserve notes and other currency.

"The latest reported figure on total deposits of all banks in the United States was about $53,000,000,000 on June 30, 1928."

The statement that banks have found it necessary to carry only about 2 of actual currency for every $100 of deposits on their books should go far to dispel the misconception that money in circulation and bank deposits are the same thing.

RADIO GAINS DESPITE NEWS

Announcement that the Federal Radio Commission has granted the competition with Radio Corporation of America and Mackay Radio & Telegraph in the broadcasting of channels on new Universal Wireless Corporation for commercial service, within a surprise to Wall Street, had no effect upon stock of communications companies.

Both of them advanced substantially in the face of 12 per cent money. Officials of older companies would make no comment on action of competitors in the new company.

It is hinted in "street" that when mystery surrounding new company is finally lifted it will be found in tie-up with Radio Corporation. Its promoters actually have found it in their ability to mobilize sufficient capital for project. Understood $25,000,000 is required to build and equip it. Plans call for operation of string of stations in leading cities.

ANACONDA SEEN AS INDUSTRIAL

That Anaconda Copper, through its complete ownership of American Brass Co., the largest fabricator of copper metal, may be considered as an industrial rather than as a mining security is the premise set forth in a special analysis of Anaconda just issued by Hornblower & Weeks.

They point out that Anaconda and affiliated companies produce 43 per cent of the brass and between 35 per cent and 40 per cent of the copper wire products. They offer this report with expectation that this year nearly 2 billion pounds of copper and brass products will be turned out by it.

It is believe that Anaconda "must be definitely considered as an industrial unit comparable to the leading steel companies which, although they are engaged in the mining of iron ore, are considered chiefly in their capacity as manufacturers of steel and pig iron from the iron ore they produce."

They estimate Anaconda earnings for next year at least $12 and they may run as high as $15 a share over the selling price of Anaconda taken on a basis of between 12 and 15 times these earning powers is to be in line with other leading industrials. Briefly shows the possibilities still existing in this stock."

AUTO OUTPUT SETS NEW TOP

New York, Dec. 28—Automotive industry this week will say:

With production of approximately 500,000 in December indicated by operations in car and truck plants, the total production for the industry in 1928 will be brought to about 4,650,000, an increase of about 150,000 over the former record total set up in 1926. Production for the industry in 1927 totaled 3,580,000, more than a million lower than in the present year.

Operations in the closing week of the year will be reduced by the holiday, but only few will close down for inventories or other late year purposes. In many plants work will actually be speeding up on new models which have been sold ahead for the year period in 1929. Car dealers, though running into a slow delivery period in December, still have orders many weeks ahead,

ROD LA ROCQUE IN FLAPPER FILM CAST

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28—The talkies really ought to be Rod La Rocque's meat and drink for he has had excellent stage training and experience. But sometimes one thinks with which we are most familiar is least tempting and I haven't seen producers do handsprings to sign Rod.

Perhaps Rod was too interested in his investment business to care much, but anyway, until Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer invited him at a big salary to put his signature on the dotted line for "Our Modern Maidens," he has made many a fable.

M-G-M sets great store by "Our Modern Maidens," a sequel to the famous modernistic flapper drama, "Our Dancing Daughters." In which Joan Crawford made such a hit. Joan is also to play the feminine lead in "Our Modern Maidens," likewise by Josephine Lovett Robertson and to be directed by Jack Conway.

Joan, by the way, is supposed to be making shortly after this writing, the year, but there have been so many rumors concerning Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan that we will have to wait and see.

TALK about he walked right in and turned around and walked right out again—John Considine, Jr., arrived home to spend Christmas with his family, after working on the Harry Richman picture in New York. Now he is starting January 6, to stay in New York for an indefinite period.

John Schenck is sending him there for the sole purpose of buying plays for United Artists. What with the talkies making it important to have the best plays obtainable it is necessary for Joseph Schenck to have someone there whose judgment he can trust and who knows the needs of the United Artists stars. Who better than John Considine who has been in charge of production for Schenck for a long time?

MARION NIXON plays opposite Broadway's favorite child, Eddie Dowling, who is here getting a little Hollywood atmosphere. Dowling and his wife, Ray Dooley, are among us to make talkies, in other words to lend their stage talents to the screen.

"Broadway Bound" is the name of the first Dowling picture and the Suncart Company is producing it. Since Marion Nixon was assigned to play opposite him I hardly think Miss Dooley will be in her husband's picture. She will probably do her comedy elsewhere. The Suncart Company is something new as far as I am concerned.

WHAT Paramount will do with the those of their stars already under contract is a mooted question. Will they attempt to make them talk or will they go on the silent talented stage folk, Buddy Rogers is one star elected to go it alone. Jan Ashbridge has brought "The River Boat" for him, an original by George Hull and Winnie Lightner of "Burlesque." It will probably be found Rogers' most important vehicle, for it has real dialogue.

RESTING bewteen contracts, that is a better phrase than resting between business business in the former you know you have a job, in the latter you're not so sure. Phyllis Haver will have four weeks to rest before she moves her belongings to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot and that four weeks she is going to spend in New York attending theaters and having a good time.

Louis B. Mayer, who is now Phyllis' boss, gave her permission to go to New York and while she is away M-G-M will hunt for a suitable story for her, she begins work for Mayer along about the first of February.

JAMES ATHERTON STARR. Who is he, what is he, where is he? Now don't get excited. He is our Jimmy Starr, and since he quit "Headlines," an original story, to Warner Brothers, he has added a middle name and asked people to call him James and not Jimmy. John Adolfi will direct "Headlines," and right now Warners are scouting for a cast. Yes, it's to be a Vitaphone.

THE Marquis De La Falaise, husband of Gloria Swanson, finds that his European trip did one thing for him, it made him talk more French than English. He says that he was away so long that he finds he must talk lots of English to get back in his former stride. He is in Hollywood to stay for some time.

While in Europe he acted as a sort of unofficial observer for P-D-C, the first observer in existence.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collected at random: Harry D'Arrast entertaining the Marquis De La Falaise at luncheon. Count Andrea De Segurola with his customary carnation, holding up traffic in the Montmartre cafe while he chats with his friends. Natalie Kesten and Marc Wheat visiting the cafe-pals after a movie-premiere. Christmas. Doris Kenyon smiling for the first time in a week now that her son Quentin Sills' temperature has gone down and he is on the way to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Burkan arriving in town and being met at the station by Charlie Chaplin. Edna Murphy wearing a new ermine coat given her by an admirer whose name is not known. Jack Dempsey celebrating Christmas day by playing on the links. Then a few days three of them his and two belonging to callers. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Judge David Lourie Enters Hospital

Judge David A. Lourie of the Suffolk superior civil court entered the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital as a patient, it was learned. It was announced that he is there for observation and it is expected he will leave the hospital within a few days.

Judge Lourie's home is at 36 Schuyler st., Roxbury.

'RIGOLETTO' IS WELL SUNG AT OPERA HOUSE

By MOSES SMITH

Opera at very popular prices continues to hold away at the Boston Opera House, where the National Opera Company last night gave a performance of "Rigoletto." And the patient seems to be doing better, for the audience was far larger than its predecessor.

Ethel Leginska, as guest conductor, must have been responsible for some of the increased attendance. It would be tactful to write of her work in terms of unqualified praise, but it would hardly be veracious. With a somewhat expanded orchestra at her service, she conducted with obvious enthusiasm, and built up some fine emotional climaxes at various points. She was especially true when the orchestra was playing alone, as in the introductions to the various acts.

But with singers on the stage, Miss Leginska had less success. On several occasions she failed to stay with the singer, with resultant struggling orchestra. There was an especially bad place in the third act, when Mario Valle, singing the title role, was in serious difficulties. Very likely Miss Leginska knew her score. But in operatic conducting knowledge is only a prelude; experience is vital.

I am not arguing against guest conductors. Very often they "pep up" a performance, give added interest to the audience. Such was the true last night. But we ought not to be blind, on the other hand, to attendant disadvantages.

The balance of the performance followed the pattern that the company had previously disclosed. The singing was, for the most part, good; the acting was better than it has been, and so was the stage management. More than your money's worth, we repeat.

BUFFALO MEAT IN HUB MARKET

Buffalo meat, a la Indian, is the latest delicacy to be offered Bostonians.

That delectable "staff of life" of the American Indian, we have in pieces de resistance on many tables during the coming week. The A. & P. meat markets are offering buffalo meat as another novelty for epicures. Steaks, roasts and shoulder roasts and other cuts to suit the fancy.

While the cost is slightly higher than everyday steaks, the A. & P. prices will show a decided saving for what is considered to be the most delicious meat obtainable. Buffalo is cooked exactly like beef—broil or fry the steaks, roast the rump, shoulder, rib and chuck, stew the neck blade and flank. It should be fairly well done to bring out the sweet flavor that makes it so commendable.

The A. & P. markets have received a carload shipment of buffalo, all of which is tender and young.

DUNBAR GREETS OAKLAND FORCE

More than 50 distributors of Oakland and Pontiac motor cars attended a dinner party at the Elks hotel last night in honor of Cafe de Danso at the Majestic theater.

The party was in celebration of a record year, and at the dinner the distributors were addressed by Vice President and General Manager Dwight T. Hersey that the coming year also shapes up as a probable record breaker.

The distributors were guests of the Oakland Motor Car Co. of New England.

Brief addresses were made by President C. R. Dunbar, Director George W. Bradburn, District Manager F. C. Sibley, Assistant District Manager A. W. Barber and Sales Representative Thomas J. Crosby.

Individual instruction may be arranged for, and there will be classes for five and ten lessons each. Season tickets will provide the opportunity for practice periods.

'TOZIER PARTY' OFF FOR OUTING IN MAINE

New England's winter sports program, constantly growing in scope and popularity, is to be opened today with the departure of the annual "Tozier Party" from the the new North Station for a four-day New Year's outing in Maine. The party is to leave this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in a special five-Pullman section of the Boston and Maine's Frank Pine Tree Limited to Portland, and from there on the Maine Central to Bangor and Lucerne-in-Maine.

The party, the eighteenth annual New Year's outing as the undersigned of Dr. Charles H. Tozier of Winchester, will comprise more than 100 men, women and children from Greater Boston, who will engage in winter sports at Lucerne in the next four days. Dr. and Mrs. Tozier will entertain at evening events, including a costume skating carnival under flood lights, with Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine as a special guest, a New Year's costume ball and a New Year's fashion show.

Among family groups in the party are Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Chadbourne and Mr. and Mrs. John Adams of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Pitcher of Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Emery and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Emery of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Down and Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Tufts of Winchester, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Parks of Taunton.

Special Scandinavian sports, not previously introduced in this country, will mark the outing program. Among these will be coasting in heavy sleds controlled by left and right handed steering poles, ski poles operated like a whalebone's steering sweep. Skijoring also will be subject to the coasting. There will be tobogganing, ski-joring, races on skates and skis, and many other events.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Calling the Doctor

In Some Places a Call in Vain

There are 20,000 students in the 80 medical colleges of the United States and the great majority of them are headed for the Beacon Streets and Commonwealth Avenues of the Nation.

They hope to be "specialists."

Meanwhile, hundreds of small communities in New England—thousands in the country—are without physicians.

The "country doctor" is vanishing.

In 1906, there were approximately 33,000 physicians in places of 1000 inhabitants or less.

In 1924, this number had been reduced to 27,000, a loss of 6000 rural physicians in 18 years.

Dr. A. F. Van Bibber, who calls attention to these figures, thinks the end may be "starvation"—for city and town alike. Without medical care, he says, the farmer will not carry on, "and when the farmer quits"——!

If the good doctor thinks the farmer will quit as easily as all that he knows precious little about the farmer.

SEVERAL New England towns already are subsidising their physicians, in some cases three or four towns forming a medical district for this purpose. Legislatures have begun to view the situation with alarm and in all probability it won't be long before the States begin to engage physicians by contract, assigning them to designated districts.

Forty years ago, it was possible for the ambitious boy to learn "doctoring" by spending a few years in the employment of his family physician, doing some reading and a lot of observing—taking care of the horses, maybe, and looking after the lawn and the furnace—and then going to the medical school for a year.

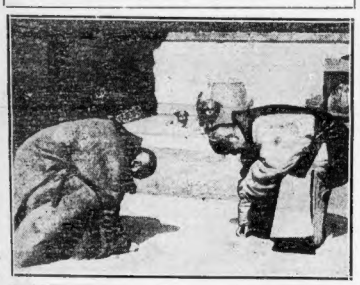
How, now?

What with college course and medical school training, the young M. D. of the year 1929 will represent an investment of $12,000 or so, plus some of the best years of his life.

Who can blame him, if he prefers Back Bay to Four Corners?

What Is Politeness?

This Is Supposed to Be, but Isn't



TWO BUDDHIST PRIESTS SALUTE EACH OTHER

It used to be said in old Pagan days that when augurs, connected with the Pagan priesthood, met they laughed.

They were supposed to read the future in the flight of birds, the entrails of animals freshly killed, etc.

Having made up their minds on a common sense basis, what would PROBABLY happen, they pretended to read entrails or bird flights, and got paid for their pains. They laughed when they met—and no wonder.

This picture shows two Buddhist priests in China that tell congregations how the great Gautama allowed himself to be eaten by the hungry tigress that had no milk for her cubs, how he came to earth at intervals and as soon as he was born sat in the air unsupported and delivered a sermon.

Their congregations pay for this information.

And the priests' heads closely shaved, very dignified and slow, bow in this fashion when they meet each other. Perhaps the idea is that while bending over they can laugh without the general public knowing it.

This, according to Oriental Buddhist gentlemen, is the limit of politeness. But is it really?

What IS politeness?

Certainly, it isn't bowing and scraping, or drawing in your breath to indicate that it is vile and contaminating. Some Orientals do that.

True politeness is not crawling in the dust from the door to the throne, as was customary once all over Asia, or inventing preposterous compliments and saying, "I kiss your feet," in the Spanish manner.

Real politeness, which in human society is like first-class oil in the works of a machine, consists in respect for others, combined with respect for YOURSELF.

SINCERITY instead of FORMALITY, a straight look in the eye, instead of bowing and cringing, a sincere desire to express friendship, and respect for others' rights and comfort. That is politeness.

Our forms of politeness are survivals of ancient times. We hold out the right hand to take the other person's right hand. This was done originally to show that no knife was concealed for stabbing.

We raise our hats. This was done when men wore helmets of metal or leather, covering their heads to protect them. The helmet was lifted that they might see each other, and to show that they did not mean to fight.

The Indians rubbed noses.

Women kiss each other, some times on the mouth. That's very bad for the health. Your own germs are enough, without making a collection.

In brief, politeness IS CONSIDERATION, RESPECT AND A DESIRE TO RENDER SERVICE. Or have you a better definition?

New York Has a Gab Marathon

By FRANKLIN COLLIER

COME ON OVER T' NEW YORK, MAY, AN GIT INTER THIS TALKIN' MARATHON. THEY GOT THREE DAYS START ON YOU, BUT YOU KIN SPOT 'EM 500,000,000 WORDS EASY!
STOP OTTO!
THE LONG SUFFERING HUSBANDS OF SOME OF THE CONTESTANTS IN THE GREAT NOUN AND VERB RODEO ARE THIS ONES WHO SHOULD RECEIVE THE PRIZES.
OTTO GROW WANTS TO MAKE A POST ENTRY IN THE GREAT NEW YORK TALKING MARATHON.
NO, I DIDN'T HEAR THAT ABOUT HER BUT I WOULDN'T PUT IT PAST HER
THE TELEPHONE COMPANY SHOULD START A MARATHON PARTY LINE CONTEST. THERE IS LOTS OF TALENT ABOUT.
DO YOU SEE THAT HUSBAND OF HERS?
AND I TOLD HER— I SAID—
I NEVER COULD SEE WHAT HE SAW IN HER TO MARRY. SHE MUST HAVE GRABBED HIM WHEN HE WAS DRUNK!
I DON'T CARE HOW LONG SHE REST ON HIS SHARY
WHAT I HEARD ABOUT HER THE OTHER DAY!
AND THAT CAT HAD THE NERVE TO SAY THAT I WAS FAT!!
THE INSIDE OF HER HOUSE IS A SIGHT, SINK FULL OF DISHES
SHE MUST BE FIFTY IF SHE'S A DAY AND SHE WEARS HER SKIRTS UP TO HER NECK AND TRIES TO GIVE THE IDEA SHE'S A FLAPPER
IT'S NONE OF MY BUSINESS, BUT—
CAL
NOT A CONTESTANT— DECIDEDLY NOT
THIS FIVE-DAY TALKIN' MARATHON DON'T LAST LONG ENOUGH! MOST WIMMEN CAN'T GIT STARTED THET LENGTH UV TIME
SKELLY GROW WOULD MAKE SOME OBSERVATION LIKE THIS.
HOW WE WOULD HATE TO REFEREE THIS MARATHON TALKING RACE!

New York Day by Day

O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—Thoughts while strolling: Max Steur, the great criminal lawyer, who might be taken for a leading grocer in Galesburg, Ill. A famous toe dancer stumbles. And blushes furiously. Those dried-up little old men with red honor ribbons in lapels. The kind who like to do an old-fashioned waltz.

Bruce Barton a Robbins, Tenn., boy, who made good in the city. Angry motorists to fluttering pedestrian: "Make up your mind within the week." Women with the despairing look of those entertaining out-of-town visitors. The seedy backwashes from Brummell with puff ties and gray derbies.

Sign on loaded dice in a magic window: "Fool your friends." Yes, and probably get shot. A hotel featuring a Maitre de Beanie. Ben Ali Haggins, who looks like my boyish idea of a city slicker. And his young bride. The swoop and whirr of mid-town pigeons. Gertrude Atherton.

Wonder what those burlesque ladies who thought it naughty to exit with a wink and back kick think of naked revues? Those tall, mysterious women with long jade ear drops, a dark Oriental make-up and I-can-be-bad walk. The whinnying, forced laugh of those who listen to a policeman's whistle.

The West 42d st. panorama—flea circuses, five-cent book shops, Army and Navy stores, cubicle ticket agencies, a dozen theaters to the block, furtive sidewalk speculators, and George White and his midget bow tie. The din of dishes and babel of tongues.

Delivery wagons in the modernistic manner. Wish somebody would hand George Jessell the address of a good barber. On second thought—never mind. A School of Eating. I know a lot of dandy addresses for swell grub. Clap hands, here comes the musical comedy juvenile who wears ribbon bows for cuff links.

Beggars who sit dejectedly on elevator stairs. Fly-by-night stores, with silk-shirted, bediamoned proprietors. Those recherche—wonder if that's right—French cafes where the uniformed chef greets you. Street fiddlers, dance hall planos, the motley from radio shops, hurdy gurdies—I want Heifetz!

A DISTINCT metropolitan monotype is the fellow who buttonholes you to relate an inane, pointless story merely to drag in by the heels the name of some celebrity with whom he dined the night before. Sometimes I think a small town has the right attitude toward celebrities. Its attitude is—yeah! And with a distinct drawl.

THERE is a man who has been conducting a small enterprise successfully until recently. Business suddenly slumped and he experimented with many schemes. Three months ago he placed a huge sign over his doors which read: "Acme Operated." Not exactly that but near enough. He decorated his stationery with the same announcement and sent out thousands of glowing circulars to former customers that his business was now "Acme Operated." Trade began immediately to pick up and today it is flourishing more than ever. "Acme Operated," like the little white panties they put on fried chicken legs, means nothing. The business is conducted exactly as it has been during all its years of existence. And as one who recently asked for Mr. Dunhill in the swank tobacco shop, it somehow tickles me pink.

DANCE knowitalls declare young Buster West is one of the best—if not the very best—of the acrobatic dancers. His dad is an old-time vaudeville "piff-awmer" and the youngster came out of that field to have his name hung up in Broadway lights. He is in his early twenties, a sensitive blond type, and could give a lot of far less talented performers a grand lesson in modesty.

THOSE dialect comedians whose conversation explodes like a bottle of pop and are classified as low Dutch, die a hard professional death. During the war they were strictly taboo. But they are returning to popularity. Perhaps the foremost exponents today are Louis Mann, Jack Pearl and Raymond and Caverly. Weber and Fields, of course, led the pack in their heyday.

FROM a men's tailoring ad: "Can you possibly think of anything so fascinating as being pointed out as the best-dressed man in a crowded room?"

Nothing. Or, well, unless a sharp edge on a back tooth.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE spend a lot of time in this old world being sore at the other fellow—

Thinking how he's Done Us Dirt—

Speculating on what great successes we would have been if we hadn't been held down and imposed upon—

All of which is quite true. Someone has done us dirt. Someone has held us down. But few of us ever discover who that Someone is!

Mr. George Bernard Shaw once said this very wise thing in discussing the grievances of the Irish against the English:

"ALL I HAVE TO SAY TO AN IRISH CARPENTER IS THAT AS LONG AS HE HATES AN ENGLISH CARPENTER HE WILL BE A SLAVE NO MATTER WHAT FLAG HE FLIES."

That's great truth and it goes for all the rest of us as well as for the Irish carpenters.

YOUR WORST ENEMY IS NOT THE MAN WHO HATES YOU BUT YOUR HATE OF THAT MAN.

YOUR WORST PERSECUTOR LIVES IN YOUR OWN HEART.

Your own envy, suspicion and hate can do worse things to you than any other human.

These are the things which keep you shackled—not the other man's malice.

You can gauge a man's character pretty fairly by the number and quality of his Hates.

Big men do not waste time hating. This is not because they are good but because they are wise.

They know that hate is the worst sort of waste.

Hate squanders time and energy and gives nothing in return but more Hate.

If you MUST wreck your life, take ground glass or rat poison or some other form of light, pleasant refreshment. But do not Hate—for that is the most agonizing of all poisons.

It poisons physically as well as mentally. This is not a fanciful statement. Any doctor will confirm it. Hate involves the glands and blood vessels in its functioning—Hate literally spurts its venom through your veins and heart and other vital organs. Your own Hate can harm you more than your worst enemy.

Do away with hate no matter how great the provocation.

Be indifferent to people, forget them, avoid them, but do not hate them.

Men will write eulogies about you if you become the Innocent Victim of another's malice—

They may drop honest tears if you bump yourself off—

But they'll just call you a sap if you hate yourself to death.

It's the silliest of all ways to waste a perfectly good life.

News of Various Realms

by Herbert Kaufman

Science is kite-flying again. If expert opinions are half correct, Johns Hopkins laboratory keys have unlocked a realm of energy second only to electricity.

So tell your mind to make a rubber stamp of "Capillarity"—a word soon destined for daily use by farmer, engineer and business man.

Stand ready for industrial and agricultural revolutions, so drastic that present methods of plant and animal culture, together with most factory methods, will become obsolete.

The same wires that thrill with these tidings, bring word from India that a native pundit concludes a lifelong investigation with motion picture proof that flowers have souls and hearts —and suffer poignantly under the plucking hand.

Two news items that tend to illustrate the difference between the workings of Eastern and Western minds—and somewhat explain two distinct phases of civilization.

The American devotes his knowledge to practical tasks and trains it to hew and haul.

The Hindoo seeks enlightenment and turns it into a meta-physical tallow-dip.

Hindoo intelligence is content with the law—ours is intent upon its application.

Races are divided more by thought than color. Because thought moulds habit, and habit determines national efficiency and character.

Kemal Pasha realizes that and bans the use of Turkish script by all publishers and printers. "The Ottoman Empire is dead," he declares, "and its language must die with it." Then promptly proceeds to burn the bridges to an incompetent past.

He officially decrees the Roman alphabet for schools and commerce, thus simplifying foreign intercourse and translation.

English and French, the commonest carriers of new ideas and ideals, can thus be easier taught and Turkey thereby kept in closer contact with the world of action.

Kemal also knows what rough handling does to a plant—he inherited the fastest withering one in Europe. But, you'll note, he's not attempting to revive it with Oriental philosophy.

It needs a thorough course of electrical treatment, and everything that "capillarity" has on the ball.

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.
